MISSOURI'S CLOSE RACE LENDS HOPE TO DEMOCRATS IN WEST

G. O. P. Candidates Not
Clinging to Cal's
Skirts

By FREDERICK WILLIAM WILE
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Baseball
mad St. Louis and equally ecstastic Missouri points east, west,
north and south, have little concern in politics at this hour, yet,
this typical border state is in the
thick of one of the fiercest election contests in its history.

The senatorial race between the Republican incumbent, George H.
Williams, and his Democratic
rival, Rep. Harry B. Hawes, is close, and growing hotter from
hour to hour. Its outcome is fraught with complete uncertainty.
Present hour conditions put Missouri unquestionably in the doubtful column.

In St. Louis, which will be the decisive battleground, there is considerable evidence that the tide
is running in favor of Hawes. The metropolitan is normally Republican by 30,000 or more. The Democrats count, with a convincing array
of facts and figures, that they will come from down state with a Hawes majority of not less than 50,000, and swamp Williams, no
matter how big a vote he rolls up
in the city.

Republican managers concede
that St. Louis, the home town of both candidates, will give Hawes a
heavy vote because of his ringing
wet attitude and personal popularity. The German-American of South St. Louis—the same element
that elected "Jim" Reed in 1922—
will swing strongly in Hawes' direction. His standing with St.
Louisans generally will make
other inroads on the regular Republican vote. The Democrats do not need to carry St. Louis to win. Their objective is to keep

REICHSWEHR CHIEF RESIGNS POSITION

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—President von Hindenburg today accepted the resignation of General von Seeck,
commander of the reichswehr.

The acceptance of von Seeck's resignation culminated a political
crisis growing out of the irregular
service of the eldest son of the former Crown Prince Wilhelm in the
reichswehr, contrary to the terms
of the Versailles treaty governing
Germany's land forces.

The delay in the acceptance of
the resignation had caused considerable resentment in Republican, Democratic and Socialistic
ranks, the newspapers of these parties pointing out that, if the president allowed von Seeck to remain in the army, Minister of Defense Gessler must resign, which would mean a victory for the mili-tarist clique over the parliamentary regime.

The president's acceptance of
the resignation is expected to avert

HOG CHOLERA RAGES IN OHIO; NO SERUM

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—With
hog cholera raging in Ohio, the
three plants in the state that produce the serum to fight it are working double time to turn out
the product but it will be at least thirty days before a sufficient quantity is available to make any material progress in checking the
epidemic, officials of the veterinarian division of the state agricultural department declared today.

There are serum plants at Fos-toria, Reynoldsburg and Columbus.
Officials said the disease was widespread in Ohio and also in several other states in the Middle West but they were unable to give any estimate of the probable loss
in this state.

The epidemic, they stated, seems to be the worst in many years in Ohio.

THREE INJURED IN LIQUOR RAID FIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 8.—Two women and a man are in hospitals
here today suffering from wounds
received in a battle during a liquor
raid on their establishment.

The fight is said to have taken place when one of the group accused the others of informing the police.

Those injured are: Mrs. Mary
Ward, 24, shot through the right thigh; Alberta Stinson, 21, shot in right leg; and Alfred Smith, 27,
shot in the face. None was reported to be seriously injured.

Smith and Ruby Latham were charged with inflicting the wounds.

FEDERATION HEARD SPEAKER THINKING HE REPRESENTED "Y"

Instead He Flooded Session With European Propaganda

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—The
whirlpool that since Tuesday
has been raging in the American Federation of Labor convention around the Detroit Y.
M. C. A. today had drawn into its vortex Sherwood Eddy, international secretary for Asia
of the "Y" organization.

Labor officials and delegates today were openly charging that Eddy had taken advantage of the federation to obtain the floor and deliver a propaganda address in behalf of European debt cancellation
and recognize soviet Russia.

When Eddy was extended the
own request, it was with the belief
that he had come in an effort to
"square" the Y. M. C. A. after the unfavorable situation in which it
had been placed by the action of the Detroit body in cancelling an invitation for President William
Green to address a "Y" meeting
Sunday afternoon. This was evidenced by President Green's introduction late yesterday afternoon,
when he said:

"We are now to have the opportunity of hearing a real representative of the Young Men's Christian Association; one who is in sympathy with the humane work
and principles of the American Federation of Labor. We are glad to extend to him the opportunity
to the exercise of free speech here,
a privilege denied to organized labor by the Detroit branch of the Y. M. C. A."

This introduction was received
with vigorous applause from the delegates, who expected Eddy officially to repudiate, on behalf of the international body, the Detroit
"Y" board's action. Eddy's first
words, however, were to disclaim
that he was speaking in the capacity of a "Y" official but as an individual who had been to Europe

SIN SUBJECT OF EVANGELIST HERE

"Sin that dwelleth in me," was
the subject of the Rev. W. R. Cain
at the revival meeting at the church of the Nazarene, Thursday evening. He said, "The primary reason for the death of Jesus Christ was that men might be delivered from the inebeling of sin
in order that they might be kept from committing sin. A man who is a representative of Jesus Christ must have a heart that has been cleansed from all sin, for a
holy God can be rightly represented only by a holy person."

The meetings will continue over
this week and next, every night
at 7. Saturday night, the Rev. and Mrs. Heslop, Allentown, Pa., will conduct a missionary rally at the church. They have traveled in seventeen different foreign countries, in three of which they have been engaged in active missionary work. The Rev. Mr. Heslop is recommended as having one of the most interesting missionary messages ever delivered from the platform.

U. J. Schwartz president of the Home Window Cleaning Company, was stabbed by one of twelve men who attacked him while he was guarding Edward Benson, an employee, who was cleaning store windows.

Schwartz's injuries were not serious.

Woodmen receive candidates here

Xenia Camp, No. 7004, Modern
Woodmen of America, will hold a
county class adoption of candidates obtained by W. G. Womack,
Springfield, district deputy, Monday evening, October 11 at the Knights of Pythias Hall in this city, it is announced.

The work will be exemplified
by the officers and foresters' team
of Dayton Camp No. 3526, Dayton, O.

H. L. Sherburn, Newark, O.,
state deputy head consul, is expected to attend the exercises.

After the adoption ceremonies,
refreshments will be served.

College leases property it owns

Probate Judge S. C. Wright, W.
C. Bliff and William Conley, Cederville, members of the property
committee of Cedarville College,
made a business trip to Cincinnati Thursday in connection with property holdings of the college
at 21 E. Ninth St.

Judge Wright announced Friday
the four-story building owned by
the college has been leased for five years. The long-term lease
is to an automobile sales agency
that conducts a sales room on the front part of the first floor and a garage in the rear. The upper three stories are devoted to flats.

Woman who says she's in "who's who" held in Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—A woman giving her name as Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, 46, and claimed that she was the Mrs. Elizabeth Murray listed in "Who's Who in America,"
as an author, editor and lecturer, was held in city jail here today on a warrant issued at Marion, Ohio, charging her with passing two worthless checks totalling $75 at the Hotel Harding there.

She is also wanted in Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and Tampa on similar charges, according to local detectives, who said she has confessed to passing bogus checks totalling more than $1,000 in those cities.

She told Columbus police, they
said, that she came here to sell Dr.
George T. Harding, brother of the late President Harding a life membership in the Woman's History
Foundation.

She said her home is in Los Angeles, although "Who's Who" lists
Mrs. Murray's addresses as Washington, D. C. and Tampa, Fla.

July And December Romance Found In Relations Of Aged Man And Child

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—An unusual
July and December romance was brought to light when pretty Lucy Paula, 12, and Thomas Bosich, 63,
both missing for a month from Youngstown, Ohio, were arrested
here today.

By day, the child was a pupil
at Mt. Bowdoin grammar school,
West End, but at night she confessed, according to police, she lived as the man's wife.

Bosich, however, declared to police that he loved the child only
as a daughter and had treated her
as such.

The July and December couple
were arrested at the Montreal
house, West End, where they occupied a room together.

Chief of Police Cunningham, of Youngstown, had wired the police

here that the couple was living in Boston.

A letter that the girl had written to her mother led police to the Montreal house.

At first the girl claimed that Bosich held to the claim. Finally under severe grilling, the child confessed.

Police learned that Bosich had entered the child as a student in
the grammar school under his own
name and as his own child.

While Bosich was kind to her,
she said he had not treated her
as daughter only. She may be used as a witness against her aged companion when complaints are lodged.

Since coming here, the girl
claims, she has written to her mother. In one letter she is declared to have written: "I'll come home again if you want me to."

The answer she got from her mother, she told police, was: "Your actions are disgraceful for going away with 'Tom.' I will never forgive you."

Other letters that the girl
claims to have written to her mother never reached their destination, police said. She gave them to Bosich to mail.

Lucy told police that she is the daughter of Samuel Paula, a mil-lworker of East Youngstown, Ohio.

Ohio police notified of the arrests, were expected to come here. Meanwhile the aged man
and his sweetheart will be arraigned in the municipal court on a serious charge.

Williams' vote here down to the narrowest possible proportions. On that they are bending all energies.

The result of the Williams-Hawes contest may depend upon the outcome of a modern Lincoln and Douglas debate—a duel between the oratorical giants of the United States, Borah of Idaho, and Reed, of Missouri. Borah has placed his speaking services at the disposal of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. This is one of the mid-west states assigned him. If he comes into Missouri to aid Senator Williams, Borah will considerably offset the great mainstay of Hawes' campaign, Senator "Jim" Reed, who is stumping the state with all the effectiveness born of his heightened prestige at Washington.

On what issue Borah will go to the mat with Reed is not clear. They see eye to eye in their enmity to the world court, which is really not at stake in the Missouri fight, because both Williams and Hawes oppose it. But the forensic contest between the senate's outstanding debaters will be thrilling, whatever they argue about. "Bill" Borah is said in Missouri to be irked over the long strides "Jim" Reed has made in the senate. If the Idahoan's silver tongue can help Williams smash Hawes, whose paramount hope is Reed, Borah's status in the senate will be correspondingly enhanced. As both men are charged with presidential ambitions, their impending clash-at-arms in Missouri has more than a local aspect.

The weak point in the Hawes armour is acknowledged to be the Ku Klux Klan danger. The hooded knights oppose the St. Louis congressman because of his general wetness and his specific modificationist views. Once upon a time the klan had power over political life and death in Missouri. Its menace is not what it used to be, but it is formidable enough to cause Hawes managers some sleepless nights. They claim also to fear an inrush of "Republican gold" at the eleventh hour of the campaign, and in the same breath plead their own impoverishment.

But the Hawes people set against these perils, real and imaginary, a factor on which their fondest hopes are pinned. That factor is the "United Democracy," fighting shoulder to shoulder for the first time since Reed Democrats wielded their axes against one another during the world war. Today, with isolated exceptions, these once implacable Missouri foemen are marching in solid phalanx. Charles M. Hay, acknowledged Wilson chieftain, is campaigning as valiantly for Hawes as "Jim" Reed is. Hay is not only an ardent Wilsonian, but an outstanding Missouri dry, who was once an attorney of the anti-saloon league. With Wilson Democrats, Reed Democrats, wet Democrats and dry Democrats presenting an allied front, Hawes considers that his fortunes are in uncommonly promising shape.

Prohibition is not of any appreciable importance in the Missouri campaign, though Hawes, as a wet of the wets, will poll a tremendous "thirst vote" among Republicans and Democrats alike. Bioggett, Priest, Williams' Republican dry opponent in the primary obtained 68,000 votes. Hawes thinks he will capture a heavy percentage of these, especially in St. Louis. Williams is rather non-committal on the liquor issue.

Senator Williams, who is an intellectual lawyer with a judicial temperament inherited from six years on the circuit bench, is not rolling up his sleeves against Hawes as some G. O. P. managers think he must do to win. Williams insists he is fighting for "a cause" and to die has refused to deviate from high-grade tactics. Until a few days ago the chief Williams speaker, former Governor Arthur M. Hyde, was making speeches not lacking in punch. Hawes set in to retort in kind. He announced he was ready to match personality with personality, if the Republicans want that kind of a scrap. The result was prompt orders, apparently instigated by Senator Williams, that the contest must be confined to "issues." Hyde has quit speaking for the time being at least, and Williams is continuing to extol the economic achievements of the Coolidge administration, to paint the horrors of the world court, and to defend his own two-year record at Washington.

It is unlikely that the Democrats will let the campaign finish without smoking Williams out on certain personal propositions. They are already daring him, for instance, to explain his alleged vote for Reed in the 1922 senatorial campaign. They are challenging his "lightning change" on farm bills in the senate, accusing him of being against the administration measures, but voting for them when his personal tally showed the bills were beaten. If Williams and his friend are jockeyed into a campaign of personalities, they have two issues ready for use. One is Hawes' record as St. Louis police commissioner twenty odd years ago. Those were the days of rough and ready tactics at election time. There are weird stories of how Hawes' blue coats systematically "beat" up inoffensive voters who looked like Republicans. It is said that Senator Williams himself bears the scar of an encounter with Hawes' policemen on one of those turbulent occasions.

But a more up-to-date "personality" which may enliven the campaign is the charge that if Missouri sends Hawes to the senate "Jim" Reed will have two votes in that body. That is to say, Hawes' opponents are alleging that Hawes is Reed's puppet, and that his every thought, emotion and act in the upper house would be in response to "his master's voice." It is easy to imagine how Reed would handle such an accusation. That may be one of the reasons Williams managers have not yet signalled such a line of attack.

Downstate are factors that do not figure in the St. Louis picture. These will be discussed in a dispatch from Kansas City, which is nearer the disaffected corn and cotton country. As an observer crosses the Mississippi into the southwest, he begins to sense anti-Coolidge sentiment, which is unquestionably more rampant hereabouts than elsewhere in the country. Senator Williams is glorifying federal economy, tax reduction and the European debt settlements, but he is not wrapping himself in the Coolidge cloak to the extent that Willis in Ohio, Ernst in Kentucky, or even Watson in Indiana, is doing. It is farm discontent with administration tactics that mainly induces Republican candidates to soft pedal the Coolidge note.

J. Q. A. BAKER IS CALLED BY DEATH

John Q. A. Baker, 75, formerly of Jamestown, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralph McClellan, Cincinnati Pike, one mile west of Xenia, Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Cancer of the stomach was the cause of death.

Mr. Baker resided in Jamestown all of his life until last December when he went to Edgehill, Mo., to live. He came to the home of his daughter, Mrs. McClellan three weeks ago.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lora Payson, Wilmington, and Mrs. Ralph McClellan, near Xenia. One sister, Mrs. Mary Taylor, Pendleton, Ind., also survives with seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the Jamestown M. E. Church in charge of the Rev. H. B. McElree of the Xenia Second U. P. Church and the Rev. L. D. Vesey of the Jamestown Church. Friends will meet at the McClellan home at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

LOS ANGELES HOPES TO CONTROL SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—"Within the next few years, Los Angeles should control the bulk of South American and Central American commerce," George Curtis Peck, of Washington D. C. United States commissioner and commercial attaché at Panama, declared upon his arrival here from the Canal Zone.

Peck early this month will take charge of the Central American post of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Trades, Department of Commerce, at Washington. One of the principal problems of his post will be to establish a more equitable distribution of imports up the west coast instead of sending all shipping to America through eastern ports.

"Los Angeles is the logical place to handle sugar, coffee, bananas, cocoa and coconut imports," Peck asserted, "and soon this city should lead all western ports in both exports and imports to and from South and Central America."

XENIAN NAMED ON PHARMACY BODY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—Otto E. Kistner, Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association, today announced the appointment of Frank Schwick, of Dayton, as chairman, for the district composed of Fayette, Greene, Clinton, Highland and Ross Counties.

His assistants have been named as follows: E. O. Tanguary, Washington C. H.; W. H. Donges, Xenia; Charles Perry, Wilmington; H. H. Hurd, Greenfield; C. Titchler, Chillicothe. These druggists will have charge of the observance of Pharmacy Week in that district October 10 to 18. During the week pharmacists will deliver addresses before various organizations and special displays of drugs, chemicals and laboratory equipment will be arranged in the drug stores, the purpose being to emphasize the professional character of pharmacy and the part it plays in the preservation of the public health. ## COUNTRY CLUB PARTY

Efforts of Mrs. Paul H. Yockey and her committee to make the dinner-dance at the Xenia Country Club, Thursday evening, the outstanding feature of the club social year, met with success and the committee is receiving the enthusiastic compliments of guests of the evening. Mrs. Yockey had the capable assistance of Mrs. Robert Arthur Kelly, Mrs. J. A. Chew, Mrs. F. Leon Spahr and Mrs. Lawrence Landaker, in arranging the special features of the affair.

Eighty guests were received for dinner and remained for the ensuing festivities. A number of the club members had guests who pleasantly augmented the evening's good time.

During the dinner hour, music was furnished by the Wilberforce Quartette. The musicians won the unqualified approval of the guests and the program of "spirituals" and popular music, was enthusiastically received.

After dinner, the guests left the flower-decked dining room for dancing. Music for dancing was furnished by the Wilberforce Varsity Nine, which has recently returned from touring the East and Midwest, including a number of popular summer resorts in Chicago and elsewhere. A delightful program of dance music was furnished by the collegians.

The entire evening was marked with informal frivolity and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

BEREAN BIBLE CLASS MEMBERS ENTERTAINED
Berean Bible Class, First Reformed Church, was entertained at the home of Miss Glenna Barrows, W. Main St., Thursday evening. Thirty-one members were present.

A business meeting was held when plans were made for a contest to start immediately. A social time followed the affair being in the nature of a birthday party, all those whose birthdays occurred in September or October being honor guests.

A refreshment course was served. Miss Barrows was assisted by Mrs. Earl Eavey, Mrs. Edwin Buck, and Miss Mildred Dice.

INFORMAL AFTERNOON PARTY FOR VISITORS

Mrs. James Holmes and Miss Ida Holmes, Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Wilbur Mills, San Francisco, Calif., were honored by Mrs. Charles Ervin and Mrs. Adda Bailey with a gracious and charming informal reception at the home of Mrs. Ervin, W. Market St., Thursday afternoon.

Guests of the afternoon were officers of the various women's organizations of the First U. P. Church and a few friends. The women brought their sewing and spent the time together in a pleasant social manner. Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Ervin and Mrs. Bailey.

LILE-HUTCHISON INVITATIONS OUT

Invitations have been issued to relatives and friends, reading: "Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lile request the pleasure of your company at the marriage of their daughter Grace Lucile

Mr. J. Ersie Hutchison on Wednesday, October the twentieth Nineteen hundred and twenty-six at high noon Xenia, Ohio."

EXTEND INVITATION

A cordial invitation is being extended all members of the First Methodist Episcopal Church to attend the reception, honoring the new pastor, the Rev. W. N. Shank and Mrs. Shank, at the church, Friday evening. The reception will begin at 7:30 and a large attendance is expected. Labels for the Ladies' Aid Society contest are requested to be brought to the reception.

TRINITY AID MEETS

Ladies' Aid Society, Trinity M. E. Church, will hold an all-day meeting at the church Tuesday, with the second division in charge. Final plans for the congregational dinner which will be held Friday evening, October 22, will be made at this time. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. J. L. Mettrey and children, Dorothy Jean and Russell, 50 Center St., will spend the week-end in Tippencanoe City.

Gleaner Class, First M. E. Church, will hold the monthly party at the home of Mrs. Roy Buckles, 716 W. Second St., Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members or anyone desiring to become a member of the class are cordially invited.

Miss Gladys W. Shadrach, N. Detroit St., is leaving Saturday morning for Columbus, to join a party of friends for the Ohio State-Ohio Wesleyan football game and the festivities following.

The missionary society of the First Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. Moser, 40 W. Second St., Tuesday, October 12 at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Edith Wyatt, of the state department of health, division of nursing, is in Xenia and paid a visit to the headquarters of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Standard Bearers of the First M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. L. Spencer Tuesday evening, October 12, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Emma Jeffers, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Kate McDill, Dayton Hill, has returned to her home in College Corner, O.

Mrs. Wilbur Mills (Gertrude Labron), of San Francisco, Calif., is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. A. Labron, E. Market St.

Mrs. Adda Oglesbee, W. Main St., underwent an operation for the removal of goiter at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Friday morning.

Miss Gladys Cummings, S. Detroit St., who has been confined to her home by illness the past three weeks, is improving.

Miss Louise Baldwin, social delegate and Miss Ruth Arment, business delegate, from Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, will attend the district convention of the sorority at Urbana, Saturday and Sunday. Several other members of the local society will attend the sessions.

Mr. and Mrs. David Masters, E. Market St., left Thursday for a visit in New York and Boston.

Sara M. Chew Missionary Society, Trinity M. E. Church will hold its regular meeting Monday evening, October 11, at the home of Mrs. Sherwin Spahr on Hill St.

Mr. E. C. Moorman, N. King St., employed at the Greene County Hardware Co., narrowly averted having his eyesight impaired when he was struck on the forehead by a part of a "bundle carrier" on a corn binder, which he was repairing, Thursday afternoon, on a farm near Xenia. His eyelid was severely lacerated but the sight was not hurt.

CLARENCE THOMAS DIES ON THURSDAY

Clarence M. Thomas, 65, died at his home on the Dayton-Yellow Springs Pike, Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock, after a lingering illness. Despite ill health, Mr. Thomas was able to be around and had gone into Yellow Springs Thursday shopping.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, William, Runderburg Road, near Yellow Springs; Lee, near Osborn and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Chandler, near Yellow Springs and one half-brother, Edward Schauer, near Port William.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning with interment in Glen Forest Cemetery, Yellow Springs.

SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION 25 YEARS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in 3 weeks!

Read this remarkable testimonial to the power of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN over constipation:

"I prize your ALL-BRAN. I have been using it three weeks for constipation. I had this trouble for 25 years and had tried everything, but could never get any relief—but since using your bran I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

Yours truly,
THOMAS A. HENLEY, JR.

Blotchy skin, eruptions, spots before the eyes, headaches—these all tell of the ravaging inroads of constipation. Don't let this dire disease send its poisons through your body. Check it now and save your health and happiness!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation permanently if used regularly or money refunded. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Kellogg's is 100 percent bran. Ready to eat. Delicious with fruit or cream—also in cooking. Served in all restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

MAJOR MONTGOMERY WILL MAKE ADDRESS AT G. O. P. BANQUET

MAJOR MONTGOMERY

The 1926 campaign of the Republican party in Greene County designed to bring about victory for the G. O. P. both in the county and state elections in November, will be formally opened with a banquet at the Elks' Club dining room Thursday, October 14 to be attended by a majority of the state candidates and all local candidates.

Major Charles W. Montgomery, Newark, O., former chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, consented to be present and deliver the keynote address, it is announced.

Many Republican candidates for state offices including Judge Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will also attend and make short talks.

The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock in charge of Jacob Kany. Because of the limited seating capacity, each member of the Republican County Central and Executive Committees will be supplied with five tickets for the banquet, which will be disposed of at $1 per ticket, it is announced.

About 230 tickets will be available and in this way an even distribution over the county will be obtained, it is said. Committee members unable to dispose of their allotted number of tickets by Tuesday evening, are asked to turn the balance over to George Geyer, chairman of the campaign committee for re-distribution.

The banquet is intended as the opening gun to be fired in the 1926 campaign and speakers at the meeting are expected to define party issues.

In the presence of a few intimate friends, Miss Marjorie Byrd and Professor Robert A. Braxton were united in marriage at the Miles residence, E. Market St., the bride's residence, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. C. Hamman, who used the single ring service. There never was a bride more lovely than on this occasion. She was attired in white satin with a corsage of pink roses. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Ethel B. Jackson. The solemn vows were taken in the living room which was beautifully decorated with flowers.

After the ceremony, refreshments were served. The bride and groom are prominent in Xenia. Professor Braxton was formerly a member of the East High faculty and is a graduate of Wilberforce College. His bride is also a Wilberforce graduate.

Those present at the wedding were: Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Hawkins, Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Moore, Prof. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, The Rev. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. George Walden, the Misses Nina Carroll, Marie Bolden, Helen Ferguson, Constance Gee, Glenna and

Mrs. Daisy Harding Polley, 36, daughter of George and Lydia Harding, formerly a resident of near Wilberforce, passed away at 12:40 o'clock Thursday in Indianapolis.

Surviving besides her mother, Mrs. Lydia Harding, is her husband, William Polley, three children, three brothers, Calvin, New York City, George, Cedarville and Grover, Indianapolis, and two sisters, Mrs. Priscilla Smith, Xenia and Mrs. Minnie Oates, Cedarville. The remains will arrive in Xenia Friday night at 6:40 o'clock and will be removed to the home of her cousin, Miss Junia Jones, Columbus Pike, where funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be made in Stevenson Cemetery, near Wilberforce.

The great crowd that gathered at Middle Run Church last evening was well pleased with the sermon from Matt. 16:15: "Whom Say Ye That I Am?" as delivered by Rev. Dooley. Zion choir charmed the audience with anthems and spirituals.

This is St. John's A. M. E. evening. Rev. R. E. Hutchison will deliver the message. Come early.

Mr. Nelson Clark, of Piqua, who has been the guest of relatives here for some three weeks, returned home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones and son, Ralph, of the Jamestown Pike, were business visitors in Dayton Thursday.

The Zion Baptist Missionary Society met Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Anna Thomas, E. Market St. The ladies that solicited moneys on quilt reported Mrs. Fannie Thomas, E. Main St., having brought in the largest amount over $10.00. The report from the Springfield district was read.

Mrs. Carrie Holmes, president, was sent as the representative to the annual woman's missionary auxiliary to the General Association that meets with the Second Baptist Church, Youngstown, O., next week.

Mrs. A. C. Hawkins, E. Main St., who has been indoors with rheumatism for some time, is much improved and able to be out again.

FAIRFIELD FLYING FIELD ACTIVE WHEN AVIATORS ARRIVE

The Fairfield Air Intermediate Depot bristled with activity Thursday, and although the field is big, the landing space became almost congested.

Lieut. Theodore J. Koenig, commanding officer of the Sand Point airdrome at Seattle, hopped off Thursday for his home base. He is making a flight of 5,600 miles, an unusually long trip for routine affairs.

Lieut. Koenig went from Seattle to Washington on business and upon arriving home again, will have covered 5,600 miles, counting incidental stops along the route.

Landing was also effected Thursday by Major H. C. Pratt, chief of training and war plans division, and Major Carl Spatz, from the office of the chief of the air service. They are at the air port for a series of conferences with officers at the old Wright Field.

Among other Thursday visitors was Lieut. Russell Ryan, from the office of the General Electric Co., of New York. Lieut. Ryan, a reserve officer, will be stationed at the Fairfield depot for the next two weeks for training.

Announcement was made Thursday by Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, Fairfield flyer, that he will leave the field next Monday to take up his new duties in the office of the assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation.

Women Need a Mild Laxative -Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now, know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach. They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it. Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself. —Adv.

Tales Off The Reel

VOL. I. OCTOBER 8, 1926. NO. 1

Published in the interests of the people of Xenia and the Greene County folks may get your names into our "newspaper" occasionally.

Also, we may decide to write poetry or high brow editorials.

We'd like to run a paper like the Gazette and Republican so we could talk about ourselves all we want.

But we can't afford a newspaper of our own. Besides, we're too busy with the grain and fuel business.

So we have arranged for this little corner in the Gazette, and we're going to devote it to the news of our business.

We may not talk about grain, flour, feed and fuel all the time. Maybe some of you Xenia and Greene County folks wish you'd advise us from week to week—criticize or commend as you think we deserve. We'll need your help and "moral support."

And while we're getting Tales Off The Reel ready each week just remember that we're also going to give you the best service we know how to deliver.

That's the big aim of this institution, always.

Joe Williamson said the other day he had to put yokes on three old sows and sew their eyelids shut to keep 'em out of the corn field.

MANKIND ADVANCES

A great many years ago, but relatively recently in the long history of mankind, the human race was engaged principally in the business of shedding human blood. Our prehistoric ancestry evidently thought no more of killing a man than modern man thinks of crushing a mouse.

We know this much of early man from history, archaeology, the Bible and our sub-conscious mind. A survival of this is the vigor and venom the modern soldier puts into his fighting and the millions of men, women and children who annually sally forth for the fun of slaughtering the harmless dwellers of the fields and forests.

Is it something more than curiosity and love of excitement that makes mankind flock to the hazardous automobile races and scenes of bloodshed? No news spreads more rapidly than that of the fatal accident.

But there is still hope for humanity. The day is coming when the word "humane" may be applied to every human. War is becoming less and less popular. Fewer and fewer persons are buying deadly weapons for the hunting of wild life. More and more men and women are finding their stomachs too civilized for the sight of human gore. Day by day are the murderous Cellinis and the gunmen disappearing. The time has come when Americans can not conceive of a man or woman killing another for the pure love of killing.

Civilization is slowly evolving a world incapable of war and murder.

PARTY GOVERNMENT

"It is becoming more and more evident," says the London Daily News, "that representative government is in very serious danger. It has been destroyed to all intents and purposes in Italy, in Spain, in Russia and in Greece; both in France and Germany its future cannot be regarded entirely confidently; and even in this country and the United States anti-democratic forces have manifestly increased and multiplied since the war."

There is food for serious thought in this paragraph. Almost every month now a new dictator takes over the reins in some European country; first it was Italy, then Spain, and Greece, then Portugal and lastly Poland. And it is equally true that in the United States the enemies of representative government were never more active than at present.

One of the greatest dangers to representative government is the bloc system. It is in the countries infected with the bloc that popular government is in the greatest danger. In the United States and in Great Britain, too, to a lesser extent, there has been more regular party government. It is our political left of representative government, because representative government, as designed in our Constitution, can only flourish through great political parties, which gather into their membership people from all walks of life.

Where blocs of conflicting interests take the place of great political parties we are apt to get one of two things when popular government crumbles—the dictatorship of the autocrat, like Mussolini, or the dictatorship of communism as exemplified in Russia.

We want neither kind of dictatorship in the United States and the best way to prevent such a state of affairs is to preserve our representative government, by keeping our two great political parties clean and effective. Everything which tends to destroy party government in the United States and substitute the rule of the demagogue or the minority bloc, is a menace to our system of government.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Advocates of government control of the coal industry may find food for thought in the following dispatch to The New York Times from its correspondent in the Philippines:

"Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, who in his youth was a coal miner in West Virginia and Ohio, today inspected a mine operated by the Philippine government at Malangas on Dumanguilas Bay, on the southern shore of Mindanao island. Wearing a miner's cap with an acetylene lamp, he descended the shaft, walked a mile underground and examined the coal and the records.

"He announced that the government was making a complete failure, despite the wonderful natural resources, and should get out of the coal business as soon as possible. The national coal company mines here and elsewhere cost the government $2,700,000 within a few years, including $500,000 operating loss. Colonel Thompson said, 'the government should lease the mines to companies with reputation and experience at fixed royalties.'

FADS OF THE FAMOUS

James Whitcomb Riley's poetry is the favorite hobby of Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University. The noted educator has read each of the 1,103 poems that Riley wrote, three times. He says most of this reading has been done in trolley cars while going to and from his office.

DELICIOUS CHUTNEYS

Apple Chutney: Pare, core and dice 12 ripe apples. Put them through the food chopper with two pounds of large, seedless raisins, three lemons (seeds discarded), one peeled, sliced onion, and two of the small, red ("hot") Italian peppers. Turn the mixture into your preserving kettle with four cups of brown sugar, five cups of cider vinegar, and one tablespoon each of ground ginger and salt. Boil till the apple bits are transparent and the vegetables very tender, then turn into hot glass jars which have been sterilized by being boiled, empty, 15 minutes in water to cover, and drained. Put on new rubbers, glass tops, and seal airtight at once.

Ripe Tomato Chutney: Pare and core six apples. Seal ten through the food chopper with two pounds of large, seedless raisins, three lemons (seeds discarded), one peeled, sliced onion, and two of the small, red ("hot") Italian peppers. Turn the mixture into your preserving kettle with four cups of brown sugar, five cups of cider vinegar, and one tablespoon each of ground ginger and salt. Boil till the apple bits are transparent and the vegetables very tender, then turn into hot glass jars which have been sterilized by being boiled, empty, 15 minutes in water to cover, and drained. Put on new rubbers, glass tops, and seal airtight at once.

Green Tomato Chutney: Through the food chopper put 16 large, green tomatoes. Let these stand overnight in layers with salt (using about three quarters of a cup of salt in all). In the morning drain away the juice which has collected, and put the drained tomatoes into a preserving kettle with the following chopped ingredients: five small, peeled onions, two pounds of seedless raisins, and three hot Italian peppers (seeds discarded). Add one tablespoon of ground ginger, four cups of brown sugar, and four cups of cider vinegar. Let all cook till the tomatoes are tender and the mixture thick. Then turn into hot, sterilized jars, seal airtight, and store.

PROMISING COLT IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM AT TRAINING STABLE

Nat Hunter's Yearling Oliver Strong Had Showed Form

Oliver Strong, a yearling colt, by Oliver Evans and sired by Guy Axworthy, the only horse that has ever shied two-minute trotters, was lost to its owner, N. N. Hunter, Jamestown, when the animal died from pneumonia at the stables at the Xenia fairgrounds this week.

A most promising future had been held out for the colt. The horse was taken ill last week.

Oliver Strong has trotted an eighth of a mile in seventeen and one-half seconds and was considered one of the fastest colts in this section of the state.

His dam was Belle Strong, the dam of Dr. Strongworthy, 2:03 1-4 and Mary Ward, 2:08 1-4.

Mr. Hunter is understood to have had several princely offers for the horse but declined to sell him. He was entered in all of the futurities and also in the Hamiltonian stake to be run in 1928. The Hamiltonian stake is reputed to be worth almost $75,000 to the winner.

Mr. Hunter is also the owner of a half-brother of the colt that died this week. Joe Hagler, prominent Greene County horse trainer is in charge of the Hunter horses at the fairground stables.

RESERVES AND MERCHANTS SET FOR TITLE TILT HERE SUNDAY

Reserves and Merchants are priming their guns and redressing their breastworks for what may prove the deciding game of the current city baseball series Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. The teams will take the field at 2:30 o'clock.

Both teams are announced to have procured new talent for the eighth game of the series this week and this is also indicated by the further disclosure that the general admission price has been raised to fifty cents in order that the clubs can meet expenses of "bigger and better" players.

Don Clark and McCall, pitchers extraordinary, who are just about as right-handed as any twirlers can ever hope to be, will probably be again given the pitching assignments for their respective teams Sunday.

These lads worked studiously and carefully to a twelve-inning 2 to 3 tie score last week and should they labor again this week, it will be a case of pay your money and take your choice for this pair evenly matched.

BREAKS HELPED YANKS WIN ON THURSDAY

By DAVIS J. WALSH

EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—At the end of the game, the breaks stood five to one in favor of the Yanks. The latter's only bad luck came in the sixth, when the wind held Lazzeri's long fly inside the park with the bases filled. But, as far as that went, Lazzeri wouldn't have been at bat at all except for Pennock's lucky double.

Douthitt would have caught Paschal's fly that scored the tying run in the ninth. That is, Douthitt would have done so if he wasn't sitting on the bench.

The only thing you catch there is a lot of splinters.

But Douthitt's absence, caused by his collision with Haye on Wednesday, was not as detrimental as Haye's presence. The latter couldn't get up with flies hit in his direction because of his leg injury.

The boys used to hold St. Louis up for public consideration as the hotbed of feudal bias. But no more. The stands made a hero of Ruth without having to give the proposition their best effort.

Lazzeri has proved two things, i. e. and to-wit: that he can hit a baseball with much fervor and that he can run into more trouble than a blindman on a motorcycle. He tried to stretch a double out of all proportion to its worth with none out on Wednesday and yesterday he romped blithely into a tag-out double play with a run already over the plate.

All the young man had to do was to stop and make Hornsby chase him or throw to second. Either course would have allowed Gehrig to score before the completion of the final out.

Our Mr. Ruth walked twice but otherwise spent a sedate afternoon at the plate. But his one-hand catch of Haye's foul in the fourth was a gem of purest ray serene.

If the Yanks win the series, and no one is betting that they won't they will be the first club to win a world's series title with a sieve for an infield.

When Mr. Huggins decided that he needed a substitute for Dugan, he sent Gazella to third base. That one brought down the house. Just try that infield on your mouth or organ sometime: Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Gazella. Just a mouthful of consonants.

Sherdel pitched two fine ball games and lost both. Hoyt stumbled through a terrible one and won. There ain't no justice in this life.

CHICAGO'S TITLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Chicago's major-league baseball players comprising the White Sox and the Cubs were entraining for their homes today following the wind-up battle of the city series.

The White Sox regained the city championship, winning four of the seven games played. The deciding game was played yesterday at Cubs park. Ted Blankenship shut out the Nationals, 3 to 0.

The Bruins outthit the Sox, 8 to 7, but Root and Blake were liberal with passes, several of which figured in the scoring.

CHOLERA IN COUNTY GETTING SERIOUS

Presence of cholera among hogs in Greene County has reached serious proportions, farmers declare. The disease has been prevalent for the past sixty days, it is said.

Farmers have complained that veterinarians in the county have been unable to obtain serum to inoculate hogs and it is also said that farmers have been lax in treating their hogs, which caused the disease to break out. Constant treatment of hogs is necessary to counteract the disease, one farmer said Friday.

Hog cholera is more noticeable in the northeast part of the county, particularly around Cedarville.

BIG COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Based on a condition of 61.3 per cent of normal on October 1 the United States will have a cotton crop this year of 16,627,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, the crop-reporting board of the department of agriculture announced today. Production last year amounted to 16,103,679 bales.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

QUESTION—What do you think of the five-day plan that Ford is using, and which is being talked about in industrial centers?

G. Mineywhiz, 13 Blue St.—"What this country needs is more men who will adopt the five-day week plan and work five days. I pay my men for six days and they work about three. If they will work five days, I will be more than satisfied."

SI Clone, 2 Essex St.—"It is a mighty fine idea. It will give a fellow man a chance to find a place to park. With five days for working and two days for finding a place to park his car a fellow should get along tolerably well."

B. A. Logna, 17 Hudson St.—"I am in favor of abolishing work forever. If we must work, let's reverse the order and have five days of rest with two days work."

Bill LiLardball, 23 Skidoo St.—"Fine! Fine! I operate a poolroom, and feel that such a movement would increase my Saturday business 100 per cent. I would invite the men to come and spend the extra day and some of their money with me."

Mr. Miller, Electrical Dealer—"It's a great idea. It will give a man a chance of getting shaved before Sunday. With the women in the barber shops he doesn't have much of a chance on Saturday now. With nothing to do on Saturday he should get into the shops early Saturday morning; this would give him a fine chance of getting shaved and home before Sunday."

Mack Sauer, The Columbus Dispatch—"It doesn't bother me at all. I never work anyway, so it causes me no worry. I could name a hundred or so others who are in the same boat with me, but I won't. You know them. I do know that ads on this page sure do the work. Phone one tomorrow."

POOR AIMEE SEMPLE

If ever this way
Aimee's steps are bent,
You'd better see me
If you've a cottage for rent.

I don't care much about the McPherson case, but I'm thankful that I can prove my whereabouts during the time she was away. They say the fellow who is supposed to have been seen with her seemed to be broke and that answers my description exactly.

A FACT

"With a five-day week,"
Said little Aimee,
"There'll be two days
To waste gasoline."

Your credit is good. Phone your ads to Phone 111 tomorrow.

DEAN INGE WARNS ENGLAND U. S. PLANS TO SNATCH AWAY CANADA

By BURTON RASCOE
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Very Rev. W. R. Inge, the "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's, London, has again lived up to his lugubrious nickname. In a volume of essays

DEAN INGE

just published here by Scribner's under the title, "England," he lifts up his direful voice in mingled prophecy and castigation. He is bitter toward the United States and he does not hesitate to hope that his country will get its "come-uppence."

Here are some of the prophecies he ventures and some of the possibilities he contemplates, not without a certain satisfaction, for in his new volume he is a Jeremiah attacking the greed, luxury, looseness and laxity of the times:

America in her greediness for power and dominion will annex Canada.

England, already reduced to secondary position in world power, will sink deeper and deeper into vassalage to the United States.

The European nations will combine to wage war on the United States, the "Shylock of Nations" and Great Britain will stand idly by and will not aid the United States, because "after losing Canada" she would "no longer have any motive" and because the United States has "forfeited friendship."

Industrial war, brought on by over-population of the British Isles and the starvation of the populace, together with the destructive activities of Bolshevism will bring about the down fall of the country.

Swarms of blacks from Africa or swarms of yellow men from Asia will overrun Europe and wipe out white supremacy.

There is, however, a rider to the Gloomy Dean's prophecies and that is that these catastrophes may be averted if his warnings are heeded in time.

While accusing Americans of unfriendliness and arrogance toward

England, Dean Inge walks on American toes very inconsiderately. He does not forgive the thirteen original colonies for declaring independence and winning the revolutionary war for freedom from England. In a chapter devoted to the revolution he argues that England was in the right, and the colonists in the wrong. He hints also that they were not quite gentlemen. He deals harshly with us in the other war we waged against England, the war of 1812, "when the Americans seized the opportunity to stab England in the back." Perhaps the most astounding thing to Americans in the book is the chapter in which Inge tells how he and other Englishmen long before the world war attempted to bring about an alliance between Germany and Great Britain against the United States. On his own admission, he himself went to Berlin and preached to the Germans the danger that lay in American supremacy. He talked to an "eminent German publicist."

"I found him strangely oblivious of the danger to Europe from the United States. I tried to represent to him that Europe had perhaps fifty years more of ascendancy before the center of power and wealth finally moved across the Atlantic. But, I added, if there is a great European war, we shall sacrifice those fifty years."

The efforts of the dean and others to bring about an alliance of Germany and Great Britain against the United States failed because Germany "was unwilling to abstain from naval competition with us."

"The cordial friendship which many Englishmen enjoy with individual Americans," he writes, "and numerous ties by marriage with American families must not blind us either to the intense concentration of the American people at large on what they consider their own interests or to the prevailing unfriendliness of America. For more than a hundred years England has submitted, for the sake of Canada, to a series of affronts and injuries which would not have been tolerated from any other nation. If the British flag were hauled down on the North American continent, it is more than possible that the nations of Europe enraged by the bloated prosperity and the airs of superiority of the man who won the war would combine to draw Shylock's teeth and Great Britain after losing Canada would no longer have any motive to help a nation which, in the circumstances supposed, would have finally forfeited its friendship."

Sayre's Drug Store

Police and Fountain News

An unhappy Tummy once said to its Owner
"It seems to ME you are pulling a boner
In leaving me suffer from hunger and drought
When a soda or two would make me quite stout."

So the Owner took heed and came in our place
And for twenty long minutes kept feeding his face
And when he arose with an eye full of twinkles
His Tummy felt fine for it had no more wrinkles!

WITHOUT Rubber!

Wotta you say if I throw out all the tubing, rubber gloves, aprons, H. W. Bottles, ice packs, sponges, nipples and shower jets I got here in the store! Let's have a VOTE on the subject! None of you folks ever USE such things do you? Let's get along without them for a spell!

What Kina JOLT Can YOU Stand?

Does a run after a street car or a stray pup leave you winded? Gasping? Shook up? If it DOES you need THREE bottles of Maltolene Tonic which will come nearer making you a Tunney or a Channel Swimmer than any thing ELSE we wot of!

Sore Footses!

The pounding you give your puppies every day is BOUND to tire them out. In many cases where you're getting heavier, the instep gives way and all sorts of miseries result. A non-skid Arch Support coupled with a dash of Rexall Foot Balm makes you happier, healthier and a heap more judical.

Christmas and New Years!

Pardon Us!

The idea of MOST merchants of waiting until December to get you all het up on Christmas shopping is a wet idea with ME!

Right in our store TODAY are PLENTY items which will make simply marvelous Christmas presents! SOME of them can NOW be obtained at a price that will make NONE of you mad! MOST merchants would lay these particular items aside until pre-holiday sale time and get FULL price for them! WE are just dumb enuf to TELL you the facts and ask you fair and square to trip in here and pick these things up NOW!

Isn't it a fact that you're going to give away a lotta presents? Isn't it a fact that you'll go nutty like every one else and BLOW YOUR ROLL a couple of days BEFORE CHRISTMAS? Am I right?

So why not come to, get hep, use your noodle and get OVER NOW at least a PART of the mess you're going to be in around the middle of December? and SAVE MONEY DOING IT!

I tried this same idea two years ago—got a little results too. Tried it LAST year and got a somewhat better one so THIS year I HOPE to get a whole regiment of you shoppers thinking straight but bleeve ME its no EASY job!

As William Penn said so abruptly: "Use thy nut folks! Use thy nut!"

The most EXPENSIVE Perfumes and Toiletries in Xenia

The AVERAGE buyer for a department of this kind FEARS to lay in a COMPLETE stock of HIGH priced items of this sort but when WE buy we figger that you Xenia folks want the BEST there is — REGARDLESS of price. Are we RIGHT?

Hold EVERYTHING!!

The "Moonlight on the Ganges," a 75c Victrola record is the most instep rousing, muscle twitching slice of pure musical conniption we EVER heard! We have others NEARLY as wild, but THIS one heads the Pea-Rade! Step up lively before they're gone!

Have You a "Little Cough" in Your Home?

If so and it is your wish to put the dern thing OUT—like a lamp—dash right in here with 50c and get measured for Riker's Mentholated Cough Syrup! It sure do know its stuff and has a keen record.

Or Mebbe Its a "COLD!"

KEEP your cold if you feel that way about it but we notice that those of our customers who don't CARE for 'em use Rexall Cold Special 25c, and the cold is outta luck! Do as you think BEST however. We have NO desire to cramp your style.

(Weather Report)

Rain is all over so here you are 5 lbs. Corona Coppercarb for $1.00 for treating wheat.

Shorty Says:

Doc is trying to string out a pain over 90 days which generally uses up about a fifth of that time! What if it IS sensible! What if it DOES save money, time, energy and wrinkles! Ain't it REAL SPORT to slug with a gang of wild eyed Christmas shoppers? Go nuts for a couple days and wake up January 2 with a couple quarts of bills, headaches and soiled collars! Nussir I'm AGIN Doc and his SHOP NOW idea!

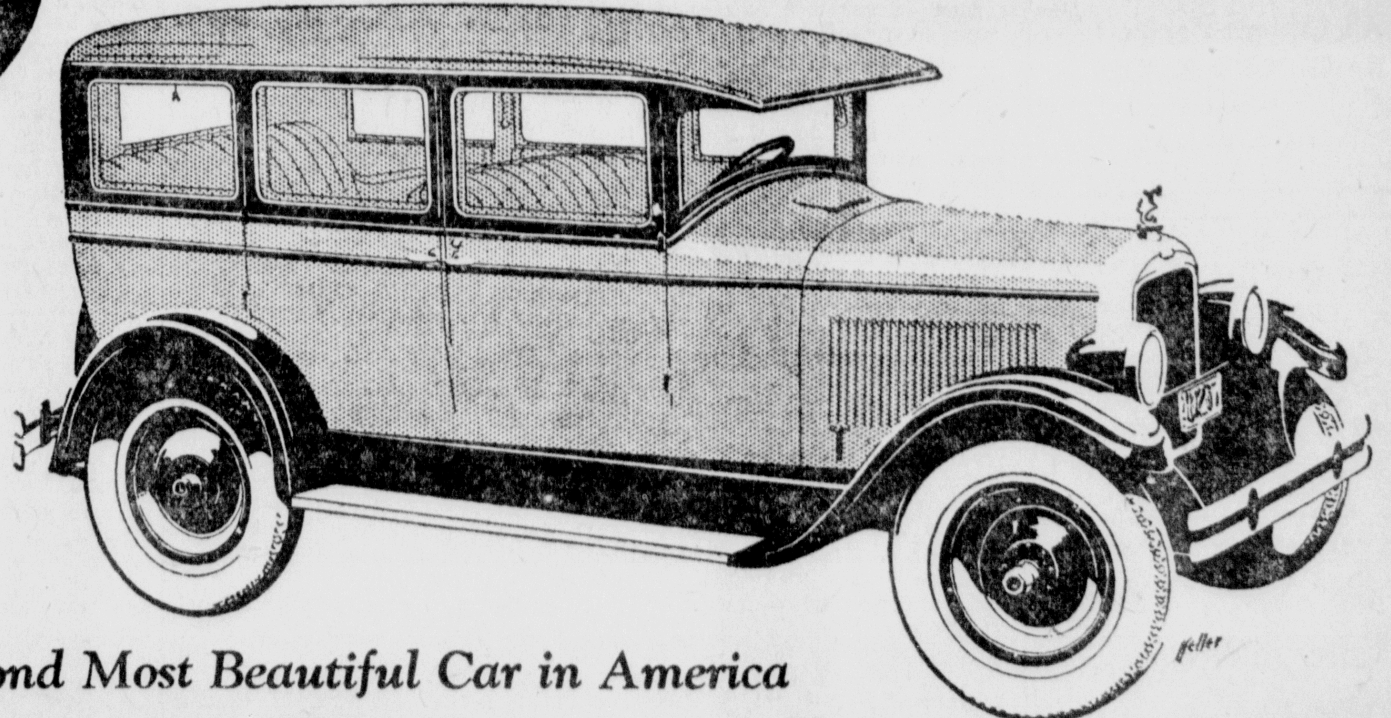

Wide doors open upon spacious rear compartment. Beautifully finished and fitted doors. Inlaid walnut-finish panels. Quarter lights. Foot rest.

The Beautiful New Jewett

The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

An entirely new Jewett—a Jewett of exquisite beauty and charm—a Jewett of smart style and matchless vogue—awaits your inspection and admiration at our showroom today.

Let your anticipations run high when you come to see this newest and smartest Jewett. For its builders have gone far to embellish this car of moderate size and moderate cost with things that in the past have been reserved for those of great wealth.

The very lines of this Jewett instantly bespeak style. Its cushioned seats resemble those of the drawing room. Its walnut-finish panels, skillfully inlaid, give an air of custom-exclusiveness quite uncommon. Its instrument panel is as charming as a beautiful watch, and the instruments as accurate. And back of its beauty and charm and grace—an ultra-modern motor (considerably larger than the former Jewett motor) and equipped with an air cleaner, bronze-backed bearings and high pressure lubrication; an even more dependable Jewett chassis; and Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes.

Sunday School Lessons

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Franklin Parker.
THE REPORT OF THE SPIES.
GOLDEN TEXT: We are well able to overcome it. Numbers 13: 30.

LESSON TEXT: Numbers 13: 23-33.

THE MAN AND THE LAND: After study and thought we are coming to know two pictures better and better. One is the man Moses who led the people out of the land of Egypt, the other is the land of Canaan, towards which the Israelites were led. Moses was a wonderful man. Next to Paul, even was he greater than Paul, in the age in which he left the law, and he was wonderful because God was with him. And here is the land we have heard so much about and where later Christ was born. This land promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and they had so many blessings connected with it. It was the land of promise, and now Moses is here to enter it and live in it. He gave himself up to this one great thing, leading the children of Israel into this land. Though Moses was never to enter it himself yet he constantly prayed that his people might come into full possession of it.

A PEOPLE, FAITHLESS: Here was the land and God said, "Go up and possess it." If they had obeyed God would have given it to them at once, but they were afraid and asked that spies be sent in order to investigate everything about it. Since God saw that the people were not ready to trust Him fully He decided that it was best to teach them during the next forty years as He taught Moses during the forty years as a shepherd. So they must remain outside the promised land for the next forty years. Moses was submissive to God in this matter. They would have far better if they had had faith and gone on in to possess the land.

THE SPIES GO FORTH: Moses picked out one man out of each tribe, to act as spies with the exception of the tribe of Levi. They no doubt dressed as travelers and two and two so as not to be suspected. They found that the natives did not live in tents but in strong dwellings and the fruit was abundant and large. It took two men to carry one bunch of grapes back to the Israelites.

THE SPIES REPORT: At last the twelve spies returned to appease the curiosity of the people and showed them the fruit. The twelve agreed as to the fruitfulness of the land but ten were afraid of the giant people who inhabited it. Then Caleb said: "Yes that is true, but we have God on our side, and He has promised to give us the land." Joshua agreed with Caleb but the two could not overcome the faithlessness of the people as well as the ten. They forgot God's power in the past and thought that they could not win the battle with the giants, forgetting that God would be the victor. God struck the ten cowardly spies with a plague until they died, but their faithfulness served as pointers to the faith of the people. God commended Caleb and Joshua because of their faith. He assured them that they should enter the promised land but all the people over twenty years of age must wander around in the wilderness until they died. We will get what our faith prescription calls for, as the Bible says, "According to your faith be it unto you."

Then came the time when the old man knew that his days were numbered. An hundred and forty seven years he had lived, and now he must face a longer journey than any that he had made. He called the son of his pride to him and Joseph came, "Sweet to me," the old man said, "that thou wilt bury me here in this strange land. Carry me up out of Egypt, and lay me beside my own at Hebron." And Joseph promised to fulfill his father's wish. And by and by he brought his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, that they might get a blessing from the aged saint. When the boys were led in, the old man gathered his last strength and raised his weary frame in the bed. Quietly he talked of the days and the loves of the past. Then he looked at his grandsons with his dim old eyes (Did he remember another day when two sons craved a blessing from their blind father?) and said, "Praise to God, my son; I never thought to see thy face again; but the Lord hath shown me also thy children." So he blessed them, and the wondering boys were led out again.

After them came all his sons, and them, too, he blessed, for telling to each, with wondrous insight, the lot that should lie before him. One more charge he laid upon them all—to bury him, as Joseph had sworn already, in the cave at Machpelah, where his kindred lay. And so he died.

A mighty mourning was made in Egypt for the old chief—even as though he had been a prince of the land. For seventy days they mourned him as he lay in his painted coffin. Then Joseph and his brethren craved leave of Pharaoh and together they took their way with the funeral train across the desert and through the southland, until they came to Mamre. There in the cave of Machpelah they laid him with his own, and they themselves came back to Egypt.

Now when their father was gone, fear fell on the brethren once more. Joseph should even yet take vengeance upon them for the past. Together they came and bowed before him, pleading for forgiveness in the name of their dead father. It was a new wound for Joseph, that they had so little understanding of his heart, and so little trust in his love, but he comforted them and reassured them, and bade them fear no evil.—To be continued.

I read a book which told of the deeds of the sons of men. It was a story of war, conquest, and pillage. I read of jealousy and deceit. I read of seduced innocence and betrayed friendship. One was acclaimed great whose hands were red with blood; and another, generous, who had devoured widows' houses. Sick at heart, I closed the book, and walked in thoughtful mood, down a quiet street. And as I walked, this is what I saw: A woman with a babe at her breast, and she was not that her face was shining. A white-robed child kneeling in prayer. A man and a maid keeping love's tryst. A young girl reading to one whose eyes were sightless. A poor widow dividing her loaf with one who was still poorer. A housewife carrying dainty food to a sick neighbor. All this and more, I saw in my little walk. And I thought of all the little quiet streets in God's world where people were doing these same fine deeds. And as I thought I thanked God and took courage. But why, O Pen of History, should these go unrecorded, while so much that is sad and unlovely burdens the pages of literature? It would be different when God's "Who's Who" is written.—E. C. Baird.

My business is not to rebuke myself, but to make the absolute best of what God made.—Robert Browning.

The greatest trade development of the twentieth century will be on the Pacific, and will be directed toward China. The purchasing power of the Chinese is steadily growing and this together with the increasing power of the Chinese working classes which constitutes four fifths of the entire population, point to a great commercial future. Only the very edge of China has been penetrated by Americans and Europeans. This great commercial development will be made in the next fifty years, in the Chinese interior. The Chinese are increasing their demands for wheat and grains that grain elevators are being erected in the Ports.

"ROAD MAPS"

The road map has become indispensable to one who travels by automobile. Before starting on a journey with a definite objective, we are compelled to study the maps to determine the best routes. We not only wish to know the way, but the best and most picturesque, and the journey is planned to this end. Some routes on the map are marked as "Main Highways," and now and again there are indications that detours are necessary. One of the interesting things in automobile travel is to experience the novel and the unusual. Even a break in the main road, with its consequent detour, frequently takes us into by-roads that are full of interest. The experienced traveler knows that his best security lies in following the principal highway, and no matter how frequently he has to detour, he feels a sense of relief back on the main road.

The whole experience is quite illustrative of life's course. The wise youth who has had his training and has come to know his own aptitudes begins his career by laying out his route. Before him, and in the distant future, is the objective he seeks. He is fully aware that in the pursuit of the objective he seeks. He is fully aware that in the pursuit of the objective he seeks. He is fully aware that in the pursuit of the objective he seeks.

Again, by failing to observe the road marks he will miss his way and be compelled laboriously, and with difficulty, to retrace his steps. His only guarantee of ultimate success is to keep clearly before him his objective. He will get mis-information, mis-direction, suggestions as to a better course, and a thousand other things will tend to hinder and embarrass him. It will not always be a smooth road and easy one that he must take, tempting as it is. It has been repeatedly demonstrated that the easy way is not the best way. Life's main highways are by no means always smooth. The kind of road map we use is a matter of supreme importance to us. If it has been made out by one who has lived carelessly and whose regard for direction and objective is indefinite and uncertain it may cost us dearly and place severe handicaps upon the attainment of our goal. Once the course has been laid out it does not pay to deviate from it, nor to accept counsel from those who depend upon chance or good luck. The highway is strewn with those who have broken down or have been wrecked through their own failure to observe traffic regulations, or to keep on the main course.

The kind of road maps we must consult, if we would live usefully and satisfactorily, with assurance of reaching the highest and noblest attainments of life, have to do with certain definite and fundamental moral and religious principles. No man has measurably succeeded who disregarded these; he may have seemed to make progress and to enjoy for a while a degree of satisfaction and a measure of success, but his experimental highway, largely of his own making, fails to bring him lasting joy and peace.

Safety Zones —FOR— Dollars

The greatest designer of a road map that the world has known was Jesus of Nazareth. His plan of life not only took cognizance of its principal highways, but He always kept in view the ultimate objective. To Him "man was not so much a fact, as a possibility." He reckoned with bad roads and detours. He saw and gave directions concerning difficulties. He knew that the main roads could not always be smooth. His own life's course was in demonstration of this. He gave no promises of freedom from rough places, but He did guarantee that where His course was followed it had compensations and rewards indescribably great. Jesus Christ's scheme of life is definite and precise, its rules cannot be ignored without resultant unhappiness and dissatisfaction. The pursuit of the great highways He planned is designed for our highest good and the fulfillment of our noblest desires and ambitions. The road map is indispensable.

Again, by failing to observe the road marks he will miss his way and be compelled laboriously, and with difficulty, to retrace his steps. His only guarantee of ultimate success is to keep clearly before him his objective. He will get mis-information, mis-direction, suggestions as to a better course, and a thousand other things will tend to hinder and embarrass him. It will not always be a smooth road and easy one that he must take, tempting as it is. It has been repeatedly demonstrated that the easy way is not the best way. Life's main highways are by no means always smooth. The kind of road map we use is a matter of supreme importance to us. If it has been made out by one who has lived carelessly and whose regard for direction and objective is indefinite and uncertain it may cost us dearly and place severe handicaps upon the attainment of our goal. Once the course has been laid out it does not pay to deviate from it, nor to accept counsel from those who depend upon chance or good luck. The highway is strewn with those who have broken down or have been wrecked through their own failure to observe traffic regulations, or to keep on the main course.

Today is the day of the budget. If you plan to build a $15,000 frame house and budget the cost you would purpose to spend about $4,000 for lumber and carpentry, $1,500 for stucco, plaster and tile, including labor; $1,400 for masonry, about $1,000 for plumbing, etc. down the line until you came to $130 for screening. In a home ranging from $9,000 to $23,000 in cost, the percentages for the various items would run quite close to the figures above. The house would be out of proportion if one item were increased substantially at the expense of another.

On lower-priced houses and higher-priced houses the percentages, however, would change. If one builds a house for $4,000 or $5,000, that money would have to be expended almost entirely for the essentials. The three per cent, set aside on the $15,000 house for landscaping, would no doubt be left out altogether.

Or supposing $50,000 was to be expended on the house, probably the carpentry work would not require the approximate twenty-seven per cent that was set aside in the $15,000 house. There might be an extra bathroom or two and the plumbing might be rather better than the ordinary without making the house disproportionate, so that of the total more than ten per cent might be expended for plumbing.

Quite similar to budgeting the cost of a home is budgeting of the building of an investment account. A man who has but a small sum to invest should buy the essentials, the staple, high grade bonds and stock in which risk is reduced to a minimum. A man with two or three thousand dollars invested and say, a fourth or a third in speculative investments, is in about as sensible a position as the man with a four or five thousand dollar home with decorating and interior finish that cost $2,000 or $2,500. In that case the foundation couldn't be very stable. The walls would let in a good deal of cold and the heating and plumbing arrangements would be poor. On the other hand, the man with a $50,000 or $100,000 home can put a quite large amount into decorating and extra trimmings without detracting from substantial construction. Also, if he has built up an investment account of $100,000 he can possibly afford to take chances with two or three thousand dollars in speculative ventures. He won't weaken his investment structure greatly even if he does lose. But for the small investor, chance taking is illogical and unsound. It is too likely to wreck the very foundation on which he is trying to build a measure of financial independence.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. REBECCA M'CAMPELL

Mrs. Rebecca A. McCampbell, 77, passed away at the Espey Hospital, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She had been a patient at the hospital four weeks and her condition had been critical some time.

Mrs. McCampbell was the widow of William McCampbell, whose death occurred seven years ago. Mr. and Mrs. McCampbell lived a number of years East of Xenia. Mrs. McCampbell spent practically all of her life in Greene County. Her maiden name was Rebecca George, daughter of John and Mary George. She has no near relatives, with the exception of a niece and nephew: Mrs. J. E. Snyder, North Bend, Ore., and Walter Law, Vancouver, Wash. The remains were taken to the home of Omer Tate, W. Market St., where friends may call between 7 and 9 o'clock Friday evening. Funeral services will be held at the Second U. P. Church, Saturday at 3:15 with interment in Woodland Cemetery.

VOTERS IN AKRON SHOWING APATHY

AKRON, O., Oct. 8.—Local voters show an apathetic attitude toward the coming election, according to figures compiled today on registrations here yesterday.

Only 5,300 persons registered yesterday, bringing the total to 9,600 to qualify so far from a potential voting strength of about 40,000. This is virtually one third less than the figures for the previous election.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

Chapter XXI

IN SUNNY CAROLINA Mary woke to the feel of someone shaking her. Where on earth was she? What had happened? What and where was this shelf on which she lay?

Then she remembered she was on a train.

"Time for breakfast," said a soft and husky voice, apologetic.

Through a crack in her curtains she could glimpse the tall young negro porter on his way down the aisle, rousing slumberous passengers by means of gentle pushes as he walked.

She sat up with a start. Happiness and a glad anticipation swept over her in waves.

Through the crack in the curtains she could see across the aisle to Philip's vacant bed. So he was already up and dressed?

From immediately underneath her came the querulous tones of Mrs. Wade.

"Do get up, Cy. We can't both dress in here. There isn't space to swing a cat in. Here, take your kimono, and get along to the wash-room, quick!"

Suppressing a tiny laugh, Mary saw her employer trotting meekly down the aisle, in purple dressing gown and bedroom slippers.

"Look! Winter is left behind," he pointed out to the flying landscape. "We're in the south now."

Mary thrilled at the return to her own homeland.

Mary's eyes were sparkling. Fresh she looked this morning in a simple starched "shirt waist," with a little turn-over collar that made her look no older than a school girl.

She was wondering if Philip Andover was thinking of their talk last night. He had contrived under some pretext of showing her the observation car, to get her away from her two chaperones. They had had quite a tete-a-tete.

Oh, happy they had been! Her mind danced into the future. That future shone like sunbeams glinting on mountain tops. Pinnacles of happiness to come.

They all had breakfast. Such a merry meal! Even Cyrus Wade was like a schoolboy on a holiday. His laugh rang out. He wouldn't let Mary have ordinary eggs and bacon. He ordered broiled weakfish for her, and potatoes mashed in cream.

The coffee was delightful. Cyrus in high fettle, complimented the white-coated and white-capped negro cook, who leant out of his tiny kitchenette to watch the happy party.

Mrs. Wade nodded, smiling at the kindly little fellow.

"We're old stagers."

"So it's the young one's turn," forgetting tact, he nodded to his secretary and Philip, then cried: "Ouch!" as his wife kicked him sharply underneath the table. "Now what did you want to do that for, Helen? You've no mercy on my corns."

She turned it off with a laugh, noticing Mary Forrest's flaming cheeks. It was nice—after close acquaintance with Luella—to see a girl, who could blush again.

But Cyrus went too far at times. Obtrusive he was.

The landscape was intriguing. Morning sunshine glinted on the lonely little creeks and reedy marsh lands.

"Ah! here we are!" Wooden steps were set against the train when it drew up jerkily in a little country station. "This is Pinehurst. Out we get."

"Ever see such tall trees?" Cyrus peered through his goggles.

They swept up an avenue to the front door, where groups of men with golf-bags stood about. The chauffeur told them that a convention of some sort was being held but the main attraction was a golfing tournament.

"Over two hundred gentlemen in the hotel."

Mary's room was on the third floor, and the pine-tops were swaying dreamily close to her open window. She leant out, drawing deep breaths of perfumed air. Stirrings of spring were all about her. Something trembled like a living thing in her young heart.

Mary Andover—ah! would he? But he must. She loved him so.

"I'm glad that Cyrus is giving you a holiday, my dear," remarked Mrs. Wade, in great good humor, as she and her husband's secretary stepped into a bus that was to take them to the golf course where they were to join the two men of the party. "You look better already. You have a wonderful color."

The vehicle sped off among the pines. They had only been down here three hours, but happiness over being back in her own dear Southland had already worked miracles with Mary Forrest. Clad in her new pink sweater and chic little hat to correspond, with a wild rose flush upon her cheeks, she presented as pretty a picture as mere man, at least, would wish to see.

They rattled through the tiny village and over the sandy roads towards the country club where Philip and Cyrus Wade awaited them after a morning's round of golf.

"Haven't lost any time in starting, have they?" remarked Mrs. Wade. "My! Aren't there crowds of men down here! I often think these conventions are purposely arranged—by the men—not for any doing of real business; else why would they choose to hold them at a place like this?—but just so as to get away from their wives a bit, and have a lot of fun together. Well, I don't entirely blame them. We women are trying, taking us by and large and all the year around!"

They drew up before the clubhouse. It had a red shingled roof, and bright green-and-white striped awnings. A verandah full of rocking chairs overlooked a putting green composed of sand, and large green umbrellas were driven into the grass to shade the heads of players who were seated at tiny tables, smoking or taking refreshment of some sort.

Philip Andover and Cyrus Wade appeared over a knoll, their round completed.

"Rode down, did you?" rebuked Cyrus in high fettle, and delighted with his unwonted exercise. "You want to walk more, Helen, and keep your weight down."

This was a sore point. Mrs. Wade had all the average middle-aged woman's dislike of walking, and never stirred a foot if a car was handy. But she spent a small fortune in electric baths and vibrators and massage.

"The air of the man! Just listen to him! And I'll bet"—turning to Philip Andover—"you trod all over him!"

"He did, too. Never mind. Tomorrow morning we do it all over again," Cyrus led the way into the club-house, where an excellent lunch was served.

The Wade couple slumbered all afternoon. At three the telephone beside Mary's bed jangled. It was Philip calling her. Would she meet him at the hotel?

Ah! would she? She tried to keep the excitement out of her voice as she assured him she would be downstairs in five minutes.

They sauntered upwards through the pines. Rain had fallen on the previous night, and the air had a marvelous "tang" about it, fragrant and exquisite.

Mary Forrest walked on clouds. Once, when she stumbled a little over a tree-root set in the soft mould, Philip caught her by the elbow.

"I have to take special care of you, you know." So sweet the words were, like a gentle breeze of spring among the branches overhead. She lifted her face to meet the warm look in his eyes.

How handsome he was, with the sun making a dancing filigree on his uncovered head! Such clean-cut features! And that sensitive mouth of his that was so tender now.

"Simply marvelous to get away from town!" His voice had a beguiling cadence that was like music to her heart. "One can be real out here. One breathes—at last."

They stopped, as though of one accord.

Showers of golden light were on them like a benediction.

"Happy?" Philip's touch was on her arm again. He had turned his head momentarily away from her, listening to birds' counting notes—the fevered quests of spring amid the greenery.

"It's beautiful," said Mary Forrest, very low. Tears ached at her throat.

"Ah, listen! Was any love song lovelier than that?" The pure notes of a thrush rang out.

She moved away from him a little, because his nearness filled her with a poignant ache. She went a few yards up the trail, and leant against a sapling tree. In the hot sunshine she could almost feel the sap that was arising in it, young and strong and sweet.

"Twigs snapped behind her. He was coming."

"Don't move. Such a beautiful picture—as you are—"

She wheeled round, smiling. Dappled light was on her upturned face.

"A lovely wood-nymph!" Philip murmured.

"You—the faun?" she counter-thrust, praying that he would not guess her feeling for him. With a gay movement she jerked off the little rose-pink hat, and loosed strands of her hair curled all about her face, alluring.

"Ah!" She could hear his breath catch in his throat. "Why did you run away from me?"

"I didn't."

"Yes, you did. You were afraid—that it caught you, held you—and you ran from it."

"Such mystery! I do not understand."

He flung his head back, listening. She could see the strong curve of his neck, and the shapely turn of the dark handsome head of his. Oh! he was good to look upon....

"Listen again. The birds' mating song. Doesn't it give a message to you?"

Tears dragged at her throat again. A warm sweetness that was almost anguish flowed through her veins.

"Spring magic!" Her soft lips framed the words. "It's only that."

"Only? It—it's like, Mary, life—and love. Don't you—can't you—understand?"

It was a thrilling melody about her heart. It caught her, held her, so that she turned to him, unconscious that she did so, all a-tremble.

"Mary?"

"Yes?"

There in the warm sunshine with the pine trees' fragrance an intoxicant, he held out both his arms to her.

"I want you—Mary. I—I followed you—down here. Listen—the birds' song—beauty—"

Mad messages of love among the trees. The fevered quests of spring unsatisfied—and longing.

"Mary, you are trembling. I—I love you, Mary."

She was in his arms. His young mouth pressed down on hers so hard the pain of it was sheerest ecstasy.

That kiss dragged from her body her whole heart.

MESQUAKIE INDIANS ABANDON POWWOW; IT HINDERS FARMING

TAMA, Iowa, Oct. 8.—"What price civilization?" is a question Indians on the government reservation here might ask themselves, for members of the Mesquakie tribe here are debating the question of suspending their annual fall

powwow because it interferes with their farm work.

The fall powwow, an institution with the Indian since long before the time of America's discovery—days when the Indian rode through the forests and over the plains only hunting for work and fighting for pasture—is considered by local Indians as the last remaining link between the old order and the new.

The reservation is split on the proposition, part holding for a continuance of the colorful custom. The line of demarcation in the debate is clearly drawn between those Indians who farm and those who do not. There are some 3,400 acres included in the reservation here, and of these more than half are farmed. The Sac and Fox Indians who make up the Mes-

quakie tribe, went in for farming several years ago. At first it was in a half hearted manner, with the squas cultivating a few rows of corn and coaxing thinly planted beans to grow. But recently this has been changed. The Indian bucks now take the lead in the farming. Modern farming implements are used, and wide rolling fields of Iowa corn is the result.

But whether the spirit of the Indian of old has sufficiently died out to permit a cessation of the powwow remains to be determined. The powwow, interesting to others than the Indians because of the native garb, ritualistic dances and ceremonies, has in the past attracted people from all sections of the state.

Bill your Skin bear close inspection

EVERYBODY admires an unblemished skin—a skin of natural clearness, tinted with the pink glow of health!

A woman's skin will add to or mar her beauty. It is her greatest charm. And a man's skin is his certificate of merit.

How is your skin? Will it bear close inspection? Or, are you embarrassed when anyone is near you, because of your muddy, sallow complexion, pimples, black heads, blotches, rashes, boils or eczema?

S. S. S. will give you the clear, healthy skin that everybody admires. You know that rich, red blood is absolutely necessary to a beautiful, unblemished skin.

It's a fact! There never was anything more certain. And S. S. S. helps Nature build this rich, red blood—it builds red-blood-cells by the millions! S. S. S. will give you a skin that you'll be proud for people to see.

Build rich, red blood with S. S. S. That's the thing to do. And just watch blemishes disappear and the sleeping beauty of your skin come out for the world to admire. Beautify your skin by feeding it with the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

S. S. S. will give you strength and energy, too. That comes from red blood. It will drive out rheumatism, increase your appetite, put firm, plump flesh on your body.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

MISSOURI'S CLOSE RACE LENDS HOPE TO DEMOCRATS IN WEST

G. O. P. Candidates Not
Skirts

By FREDERICK WILLIAM WILE
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Baseball
mad St. Louis and equally ecstas-
tic Missouri points east, west,
north and south, have little concern in politics at this hour, yet,
this typical border state is in the
thick of one of the fiercest election contests in its history.

The senatorial race between the Republican incumbent, George H.
Williams, and his Democratic
rival, Rep. Harry B. Hawes, is close, and growing hotter from
hour to hour. Its outcome is fraught with complete uncertainty.
Present hour conditions put Missouri unquestionably in the doubtful column.

In St. Louis, which will be the decisive battleground, there is
considerable evidence that the tide
is running in favor of Hawes. The metropolis is normally Republican by 30,000 or more. The Democrats contend, with a convincing array
of facts and figures, that they will
come from down state with a Hawes majority of not less than 50,000, and swamp Williams, no
matter how big a vote he rolls up
in the city.

Republican managers concede
that St. Louis, the home town of
both candidates, will give Hawes a
heavy vote because of his ringing
wet attitude and personal popularity. The German-American of South St. Louis—the same element
that elected "Jim" Reed in 1922—
will swing strongly in Hawes' direction. His standing with St.
Louisans generally will make
other inroads on the regular Republican vote. The Democrats do not need to carry St. Louis to
win. Their objective is to keep

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—President von
Hindenburg today accepted the resignation of General von Seeckt,
commander of the reichswehr.

The acceptance of von Seeckt's resignation culminated a political
crisis growing out of the irregular
service of the eldest son of the
former Crown Prince Wilhelm in the
reichswehr, contrary to the terms
of the Versailles treaty governing
Germany's land forces.

The delay in the acceptance of
the resignation had caused considerable resentment in Republican, Democratic and Socialistic
ranks, the newspapers of these
parties pointing out that, if the president allowed von Seeckt to remain in the army, Minister of Defense Gessler must resign, which
would mean a victory for the mili-tarist clique over the parliamentary regime.

The president's acceptance of
the resignation is expected to avert

HOG CHOLERA RAGES IN OHIO; NO SERUM

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—With
hog cholera raging in Ohio, the
three plants in the state that produce the serum to fight it are
working double time to turn out
the product but it will be at least
thirty days before a sufficient
quantity is available to make any
material progress in checking the
epidemic, officials of the veterinarian division of the state agricultural department declared today.

There are serum plants at Fos-
toria, Reynoldsburg and Columbus.
Officials said the disease was
widespread in Ohio and also in
several other states in the Middle West but they were unable to give
any estimate of the probable loss
in this state.

The epidemic, they stated, seems
to be the worst in many years in

THREE INJURED IN LIQUOR RAID FIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 8.—Two women and a man in hospitals
here today suffering from wounds
received in a battle during a liquor
raid on their establishment.

The fight is said to have taken
place when one of the group ac-
police.

Those injured are: Mrs. Mary
Ward, 24, shot through the right thigh; Albert Stinson, 21, shot in right leg; and Alfred Smith, 27,
shot in the face. None was reported to be seriously injured.

Smith and Ruby Latham were
charged with inflicting the wounds.

LABOR MEETING INCENSED BY EDDY SPEECH

FOUR PERSONS KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

VICTORIA, Iowa, Oct. 8.—Four persons were dead here today as a result of their automobile being struck by the Rock Mountain Limited of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

The dead are: Frank Funk, 91,
Wichita, Kans.

She Spied

Agnes Callahan, maid at a Los Angeles hotel, said she saw Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio operator, enter the room of Aimee Semple Mc-Pherson, evangelist, who was accused of conspiracy in connection with her disappearance.

MEETINGS PLANNED IN URGE INTEREST IN CHURCH MISSIONS

Greene County Presbyterian Churches, among other churches of the Dayton Presbytery will be visited during October in the interest of national missions.

Five district meetings will be held Monday, October 11, when a dinner conference will be held in each of the five districts into which Dayton Presbytery is divided. The first will be held October 12 at the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield. Xenia and Greene County Presbyterians will attend this meeting and reservations are being received by the pastor of the Covenant church.

The second meeting will be held at Cedarville, Wednesday, October 13, at the First Presbyterian Church, Springfield. Xenia Presbyterian Church is third on the list for Thursday, October 14. The Rev. John Sharpe mission worker in Eastern Ohio will address this meeting.

Other meetings in sequence are:
Northminster Presbyterian Church
Springfield, Friday, October 15; Oakland Presbyterian Church,
Springfield, Monday, October 18;
First Presbyterian Church, Yellow Springs, Tuesday, October 19;
First Presbyterian Church, South
Charleston, Wednesday, October 20; First Presbyterian Church, Clifton, Thursday, October 21; First Presbyterian Church, New Carlisle, Friday, October 22; First Presbyterian Church, Durbin, Monday, October 25.

SEEKING MISSING COLUMBUS MAN

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—Search was renewed today for A. A. Kerr, prominent business man whose disappearance is surrounded by mystery and who, his family declares, might have met with foul play.

Kerr's truck was found in Alum creek and, when it was raised,
one of his shoes was discovered,
police said. The creek was dragged last night, without result.

FEDERATION HEARD SPEAKER THINKING HE REPRESENTED "Y"

Instead He Flooded Session With European
Propaganda

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—The
whirlpool that since Tuesday
has been raging in the American Federation of Labor convention around the Detroit Y.
M. C. A. today had drawn into
its vortex Sherwood Eddy, international secretary for Asia
of the "Y" organization.

Labor officials and delegates to-
day were openly charging that Eddy had taken advantage of the
federation to obtain the floor and deliver a propaganda address in behalf of European debt cancellation
and recognize soviet Russia.

own request, it was with the belief
that he had come in an effort to
"square" the Y. M. C. A. after the unfavorable situation in which it
had been placed by the action of
the Detroit body in cancelling an invitation for President William
Green to address a "Y" meeting
Sunday afternoon. This was evidenced by President Green's introduction late yesterday afternoon,
when he said:

"We are now to have the opportunity of hearing a real representative of the Young Men's Christian Association; one who is in
sympathy with the humane work
and principles of the American Federation of Labor. We are glad
to extend to him the opportunity
to the exercise of free speech here,
a privilege denied to organized labor by the Detroit branch of the Y.
M. C. A."

This introduction was received
with vigorous applause from the
delegates, who expected Eddy officially to repudiate, on behalf of the international body, the Detroit
"Y" board's action. Eddy's first
words, however, were to disclaim
that he was speaking in the capacity of a "Y" official but as an individual who had been to Europe

SIN SUBJECT OF EVANGELIST HERE

"Sin that dwelleth in me," was
the subject of the Rev. W. R. Cain
at the revival meeting at the church of the Nazarene, Thursday
evening. He said, "The primary reason for the death of Jesus Christ was that men might be delivered from the inebeling of sin
in order that they might be kept from committing sins. A man, to be a representative of Jesus Christ must have a heart that has
been cleansed from all sin, for a
holy God can be rightly represented only by a holy person."

The meetings will continue over
this week and next, every night
at 7. Saturday night, the Rev. and Mrs. Heslop, Allentown, Pa., will conduct a missionary rally at the church. They have traveled in seventeen different foreign countries, in three of which they have
been engaged in active missionary
work. The Rev. Mr. Heslop is recommended as having one of the
most interesting missionary messages ever delivered from the platform.

WOODMEN RECEIVE CANDIDATES HERE

Xenia Camp, No. 7094, Modern
Woodmen of America, will hold a
county class adoption of candidates obtained by W. G. Womack,
Springfield, district deputy, Mon-
day evening, October 11 at the Knights of Pythias Hall in this
city, it is announced.

The work will be exemplified
by the officers and foresters' team
of Dayton Camp No. 3526, Dayton, O.

H. L. Sherburn, Newark, O.,
state deputy head consul, is expected to attend the exercises.
After the adoption ceremonies,
refreshments will be served.

COLLEGE LEASES PROPERTY IT OWNS

Probate Judge S. C. Wright, W.
C. Tiff and William Conley, Cedarville, members of the property
committee of Cedarville College,
made a business trip to Cincinnati Thursday in connection with
property holdings of the college
at 21 E. Ninth St.

Judge Wright announced Friday
the four-story building owned by
the college has been leased for
five years. The long-term lease
is to an automobile sales agency
that conducts a sales room on the front part of the first floor and a garage in the rear. The upper
three stories are devoted to flats.

She told Columbus police, they
said, that she came here to sell Dr.
George T. Harding, brother of the late President Harding a life membership in the Woman's History
Foundation.

She said her home is in Los Angeles, although "Who's Who" lists
Mrs. Murray's addresses as Washington, D. C. and Tampa, Fla.

July And December Romance Found In Relations Of Aged Man And Child

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—An unusual
July and December romance was
brought to light when pretty Lucy Paule, 12, and Thomas Bosich, 63,
both missing for a month from Youngstown, Ohio, were arrested
here today.

By day, the child was a pupil
at Mt. Bowdoin grammar school,
West End, but at night she confessed, according to police, she
lived as the man's wife.

Bosich, however, declared to police that he loved the child only
as a daughter and had treated her
as such.

The July and December couple
were arrested at the Montreal
house, West End, where they occupied a room together.

Chief of Police Cunningham, of Youngstown, had wired the police

Boston.

A letter that the girl had written to her mother led police to the Montreal house.

At first the girl claimed that Bosich was her father. Bosich held to the claim. Finally under severe grilling the child confessed.

Police learned that Bosich had entered the child as a student in
the grammar school under his own
name and as his own child.

While Bosich was kind to her,
she said he had not treated her
as daughter only. She may be used as a witness against her aged
companion when complaints are
lodged.

Since coming here, the girl
claims, she has written to her mother. In one letter she is declared to have written: "I'll come

home again if you want me to."
The answer she got from her mother, she told police, was: "Your
actions are disgraceful for going away with 'Tom.' I will never for-
give you."

Other letters that the girl
claims to have written to her
mother never reached their destination, police said. She gave them
to Bosich to mail.

Lucy told police that she is the daughter of Samuel Paule, a mil-lworker of East Youngstown, Ohio.

Ohio police notified of the arrests, were expected to come
here. Meanwhile the aged man
and his sweetheart will be arraign-
ed in the municipal court on a serious charge.

NEW FLOODS IN ILLINOIS

Guards are being kept along dikes outside of Peoria, Ill., to prevent Illinois river from cutting off roads, as picture shows. In other photo are shown some of many homes made desolate and deserted by new floods.

TESTIMONY OF DOUGLAS, ARIZ., OFFICER HURTS MRS. M'PHERSON

Tells Of Search for Shack—Says Appearance Did Not Indicate Long Walk She Said She Took

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—With the sensational primary hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson's conspiracy case almost two weeks old,
there was no indication today when this phrase of the case would be finished.

Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seilaff, a co-defendant and said to be the state's star witness, has not yet been called to the stand.

Alonzo B. Murchison, member of the Douglas, Ariz., police force and the first officer to talk to Mrs. Mc-Pherson after her reappearance stand the entire day yesterday. He testified that he searched within a radius of sixty miles for the shack in which Mrs. McPherson said she had been held captive and stated
he was unable to find it.

The officer also expressed doubt that the evangelist had walked twenty miles over the desert. He said it would have been impossible for her to cover this distance and not have her clothes show more signs of wear.

During the progress of the hearing, W. I. Gilbert, chief attorney for Mrs. McPherson, spilled a glass of water on the garments Mrs. Mc-Pherson wore at the time she appeared at Douglas. This aroused the wrath of District Attorney Asa Keyes, who protested to the court.

HUNT FOR WOMAN

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—Police here today were seeking Mrs. Ruth Thomas, 27, who, her husband told police, was kidnapped yesterday afternoon by a man who dragged her into his automobile when she alighted from a street car.

Thomas, police said, gave them
the name of the alleged abductor,
and millionaire husband of the vanished girl.

The court admonished Gilbert to be more careful of the clothes, which the state contends will have more than a little bearing on the outcome of the case.

Murchison proved to be an adroit witness and cross-examination by Gilbert failed to shake his story, which has proven to be extremely damaging to the evangelist.

Mrs. McPherson, apparently, took more than a little interest as Murchison testified. She practically took her defense in her own hands yesterday, prompting the questions fired at him by Gilbert.

Ormiston, the missing radio operator, who is also sought by police as co-defendant in the trial, was still at large today. It was reported that he was seen driving a car in Pasadena yesterday.

The mob hustled the woman and the two men to a patch of woods
three miles south of the city,
where they shot them to death.

While the mob was storming the jail, Jailor W. H. Taylor called Sheriff Charles Robinson but,
when the latter arrived, Taylor
had been locked in a cell. Robinson also was overpowered and locked up.

The mob hustled the woman and

HAS BROWNING'S LOVE TURNED COLD? CLAIMS NO INTEREST

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Edward W.
Browning, the "Cinderella man,"
and millionaire husband of the vanished "Peaches" Heenan Browning, said he wasn't the least bit interested today when he was told that one of her friends had located her and he added that he didn't care much when he was informed about a statement attributed to her that she was "through" with him.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Private detectives today are attempting to block any effort of "Peaches" Heenan Browning and her mother to get very far away from Edward W.

HEAVY CROP LOSSES RESULT HERE AFTER CONTINUOUS RAINS

Frosts Help Rather Than Hurt Crops Now Is Said

Almost continuous rainfall of the past ten days has resulted in heavy crop losses to Greene County farmers.

Crop experts say the condition of potatoes is almost hopeless while the corn has become so soggy it will probably not dry out.

Officials at the Greene County Farm Bureau report that corn is generally moulding in the fields
while some corn that has already been cut and shocked is also moulding.

Rainfall has resulted in delay in getting the corn harvested in order to sow wheat in its place with the conclusion reached that farmers are two weeks behind in corn cutting and wheat sowing.

Too much water has also damaged oats and wheat not yet threshed is rotting in the fields.

The fields have become so muddy that farmers have been unable to dig up potatoes and on this account the crop is expected to be short. If the prospect of more rain is realized, there is the additional danger of potatoes freezing in the ground.

Frosts of the past two nights,
experts say, have been more helpful than harmful to crops as little damage has been caused. Frosts at this time of year are to be anticipated and one of the greatest advantages of the turning weather is the probably destruction of the Hessian fly. This insect menace is not hatching out like it would in warm and sultry weather, it is said.

Farmers are optimistic that the corn and potato crops will not be completely lost as a spell of fair and warmer weather would do much to dry up the fields and ractity conditions.

NEGROES KILLED BY MOB OF 400 MEN

AIKEN, S. C., Oct. 8.—Three negroes, two men and a woman,
taken from the county jail here today and shot to death by a mob of 400 men. They were accused of the murder of Sheriff Henry H. Howard, who was killed during a liquor raid.

The lynching followed a verdict of not guilty returned yesterday against Demon Loman, 21. The other negroes slain were Bertha Loman, 26, wife of Demon Loman, and his brother Clyde Loman, 18.

While the mob was storming the
jail, Jailor W. H. Taylor called Sheriff Charles Robinson but,
when the latter arrived, Taylor
had been locked in a cell. Robinson also was overpowered and
locked up.

when the latter arrived, Taylor
had been locked in a cell. Robin-

Neighbors said Browning's mother-in-law told them she and sixteen-year-old "Peaches" were going to Canada for a long visit, away from Browning.

VICTORY SATURDAY WILL GIVE HUGGINS ATHLETES PENNANT

Hornsby Confident Alexander Can Halt New Yorkers

By DAVIS J. WALSH
EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—"I'll match
my two winners against their two losers and ask favors of no man."

That was Rogers Hornsby's
final word as he boarded a train for the East with his St.
Louis Cardinals in tow for the sixth game of the world series with the New York Yankees at the stadium on Saturday, and today the intelligentsia were disposed to string along with the young man's view point.

The Cards may be one down and two to play on this series but the fact that Hornsby had Alexander and Haines, his two winning pitchers, to match against Huggins'
two losers, Shocker and Reuther, was not to be laughed off in a high falsetto. Life might have been ebbing fast from Cardinal hopes today but all animation was by no means extinct.

Alexander will pitch the Saturday pastime in New York and, if he can show sixty per cent of the game he showed the first time
they took the blanket off of him,
the Cards can't be any worse than an even bet for that particular occasion.

For the entire series, the Yanks, perforce, ranked a 2 to 1 favorite on the basis of elementary mathematics. The Cards had to take two ball games to win the series; the Yanks only one.

And, unless the Yanks get around
to the matter of catching pop flies,
the best exhibition of pitching that Alexander and Haines might care to uncover will get them slightly less than nothing. Bill Sherdel turned loose a left-handed epic yesterday and all he got was a pain in the collar and his second straight defeat in the series at the hands of Herb Pennock.

What the Yanks did to Bill was little, if anything. What the Cards did to him was ample, sufficient and enough.

The first alien run scored when Hafey stepped on his silly foot and lost Pennock's drive for a two-base hit, so-called, and he came on in on Koenig's single to left. But, before this transpired, they trapped Pen-

GIRL TRIES ALBANY TO NEW YORK SWIM

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—An attempt to swim the 160 miles in the Hudson River from Albany to New York will be made Sunday by Lotty Moore Schomell, New York's only woman life guard.

Mrs. Schomell expects to make the distance in four days, swimming during the day and sleeping aboard a launch at night.
She will attempt to swim seventy miles the first day, starting under the Albany bridge about 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

The time of Mille Gade Corson, woman channel swimmer, for the same swim was six days.

Mrs. Schomell recently swam forty-four and one-half miles around Manhattan island in fourteen hours, eleven minutes. She set a record of five hours and fifty-seven minutes for the twenty-one mile swim from the Battery to Sandy Hook against the record of seven hours and eleven minutes held by Gertrude Ederle, first woman to conquer the English Channel.

While the mob was storming the
jail, Jailor W. H. Taylor called Sheriff Charles Robinson but,
when the latter arrived, Taylor
had been locked in a cell. Robinson also was overpowered and
locked up.

INSPECTS PLANT OF XENIA STEMMERY

A. L. Sylvester, New York City,
president of the American Cigar
Co., was a business visitor in Xenia Thursday afternoon, making a short inspection trip over the Xenia stemmery branch of the company.

Mr. Sylvester is an infrequent visitor in this city but is now on his annual tour of his holdings over this section of the country. He is at present making his headquarters in Dayton and returned to that city again Thursday.

BABE NEARLY LOST

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8.—Babe
Ruth almost missed the train which carried the Yankees out of St. Louis last evening.

After the game he went down to be presented with an automobile by St. Louis friends and missed the Yankee special at Union Station. He telephoned the Belmont Avenue station, on the North Side, to have the train held and just caught the special by making a mad dash by motor through the traffic.

Williams' vote here down to the narrowest possible proportions. On that they are bending all their energies.

The result of the Williams-Hawes contest may depend upon the outcome of a modern Lincoln and Douglas debate—a duel between the oratorical giants of the United States, Borah of Idaho, and Reed of Missouri. Borah has placed his speaking services at the disposal of the Republican senatorial campaign committee. This is one of the mid-west states assigned him. If he comes into Missouri to aid Senator Williams, Borah will considerably offset the great mainstay of Hawes' campaign, Senator "Jim" Reed, who is stumping the state with all the effectiveness born of his heightened prestige at Washington.

On what issue Borah will go to the mat with Reed is not clear. They see eye to eye in their enmity to the world court, which is really not at stake in the Missouri fight, because both Williams and Hawes oppose it. But the for- ensic contest between the senate's outstanding debaters will be thrilling, whatever they argue about. "Bill" Borah is said in Missouri to be frked over the long strides "Jim" Reed has made in the senate. If the Idahoan's silver tongue can help Williams smash Hawes, whose paramount hope is Reed, Borah's status in the senate will be correspondingly enhanced. As both men are charged with presidential ambitions, their impending clash-at-arms in Missouri has more than a local aspect.

The weak point in the Hawes armour is acknowledged to be the Ku Klux Klan danger. The hooded knights oppose the St. Louis congressman because of his general wetness and his specific modificationist views. Once upon a time the klan had power over political life and death in Missouri. Its menace is not what it used to be, but it is formidable enough to cause Hawes' managers some sleepless nights. They claim alarm to fear an inrush of "Republican gold" at the eleventh hour of the campaign, and in the same breath plead their own impoverishment.

But the Hawes people set against these perils, real and imaginary, a factor on which their fondest hopes are pinned. That factor is the "United Democracy," fighting shoulder to shoulder for the first time since Reed Democrats wielded their axes against one another during the world war. Today, with isolated exceptions, these once implacable Missouri foe- men are marching in solid phalanx. Charles M. Hay, acknowledged Wilson chieftain, is campaigning as valiantly for Hawes as "Jim" Reed is. Hay is not only an ardent Wilsonian, but an outstanding Missouri dry, who was once an attorney of the anti-saloon league. With Wilson Democrats, Reed Democrats, wet Democrats and dry Democrats presenting an allied front, Hawes considers that his fortunes are in uncommonly promising shape.

Prohibition is not of any appreciable importance in the Missouri campaign, though Hawes, as a wet of the wets, will poll a tremendous "thirst vote" among Republicans and Democrats alike. Bioggett Priest, Williams' Republican dry opponent in the primaries obtained 68,000 votes. Hawes thinks he will capture a heavy percentage of these, especially in St. Louis. Williams is rather non-committal on the liquor issue.

Senator Williams, who is an intellectual lawyer with a judicial temperament inherited from six years on the circuit bench, is not rolling up his sleeves against Hawes as some G. O. P. managers think he must do to win.

Williams insists he is fighting for "a cause" and to date has refused to deviate from high-grade tactics. Until a few days ago the chief Williams speaker, former Governor Arthur M. Hyde, was making speeches not lacking in punch. Hawes set in to retort in kind. He announced he was ready to match personality with personality, if the Republicans want that kind of a scrap. The result was prompt orders, apparently instigated by Senator Williams, that the contest must be confined to "issues." Hyde has quit speaking, for the time being at least, and Williams is continuing to extol the economic achievements of the Coolidge administration, to paint the horrors of the world court, and to defend his own two-year record at Washington.

It is unlikely that the Democrats will let the campaign finish without smoking Williams out on certain personal propositions. They are already daring him, for instance, to explain his alleged

J. Q. A. BAKER IS CALLED BY DEATH

John Q. A. Baker, 75, formerly of Jamestown, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralph McClellan, Cincinnati Pike, one mile west of Xenia, Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Cancer of the stomach was the cause of death.

Mr. Baker resided in Jamestown all of his life until last December when he went to Edgehill, Mo., to live. He came to the home of his daughter, Mrs. McClellan three weeks ago.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lora Pawcett, Wilmington, and Mrs. Ralph McClellan, near Xenia. One sister, Mrs. Mary Taylor, Pendleton, Ind., also survives with seven grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the Jamestown M. E. Church in charge of the Rev. H. B. McElree of the Xenia Second U. P. Church and the Rev. L. D. Vesey of the Jamestown Church. Friends will meet at the McClellan home at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in Jamestown Cemetery.

LOS ANGELES HOPES TO CONTROL SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—"Within the next few years, Los Angeles should control the bulk of South American and Central American commerce," George Curtis Peck, of Washington D. C. United States commissioner and commercial attaché at Panama, declared upon his arrival here from the Canal Zone.

Peck early this month will take charge of the Central American post of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Trade, Department of Commerce, at Washington. One of the principal problems of his post will be to establish a more equitable distribution of imports up the west coast instead of sending all shipping to America through eastern ports.

"Los Angeles is the logical place to handle sugar, coffee, bananas, cocoa and coconut imports," Peck asserted, "and soon this city should lead all western ports in both exports and imports to and from South and Central America."

XENIAN NAMED ON PHARMACY BODY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 8.—Otto E. Kistner, Cincinnati, president of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association, today announced the appointment of Frank Schwilk, of Dayton, as chairman, for the district composed of Fayette, Greene, Clinton, Highland and Ross Counties.

His assistants have been named as follows: E. O. Tanguary, Washington, C. H.; W. H. Donges, Xenia; Charles Perry, Wilmington; H. H. Hurd, Greenfield; C. Tritchler, Chillicothe. These druggists will have charge of the observance of Pharmacy Week in that district October 10 to 16. During the week pharmacists will deliver addresses before various organizations and special displays of drugs, chemicals and laboratory equipment will be arranged in the drug stores, the purpose being to emphasize the professional character of pharmacy and the part it plays in the preservation of the public health. ## COUNTRY CLUB PARTY INTERESTINGLY STAGED

Efforts of Mrs. Paul B. Yockey and her committee to make the dinner-dance at the Xenia Country Club, Thursday evening, the outstanding feature of the club social year, met with success and the committee is receiving the enthusiastic compliments of guests of the evening. Mrs. Yockey had the capable assistance of Mrs. Robert Arthur Kelly, Mrs. J. A. Chew, Mrs. F. Leon Spahr and Mrs. Lawrence Landaker, in arranging the special features of the affair.

Eighty guests were received for dinner and remained for the ensuing festivities. A number of the club members had guests who pleasantly augmented the evening's good time.

After dinner, the guests left the flower-bedecked dining room for dancing. Music for dancing was furnished by the Wilberforce Quartette. The musicians won the unqualified approval of the guests and the program of "spirituals" and popular music, was enthusiastically received.

The entire evening was marked with informal frivolity and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

Berean Bible Class, First Reformed Church, was entertained at the home of Miss Glenna Barrows, W. Main St., Thursday evening. Thirty-one members were present.

A business meeting was held when plans were made for a contest to start immediately. A social time followed, the affair being in the nature of a birthday party, all those whose birthdays occurred in September or October being honor guests.

A refreshment course was served. Miss Barrows was assisted by Mrs. Earl Eavey, Mrs. Edwin Buck, and Miss Mildred Dice.

INFORMAL AFTERNOON PARTY FOR VISITORS
Mrs. James Holmes and Miss Ida Holmes, Pasadena, Calif., and Mrs. Wilbur Mills, San Francisco, Calif., were honored by Mrs. Charles Ervin and Mrs. Adda Bailey with a gracious and charming informal reception at the home of Mrs. Ervin, W. Market St., Thursday afternoon.

Guests of the afternoon were officers of the various women's organizations of the First U. P. Church and a few friends. The women brought their sewing and spent the time together in a pleasant social manner. Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Ervin and Mrs. Bailey.

Invitations have been issued to relatives and friends, reading: "Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lile request the pleasure of your company at the marriage of their daughter Grace Lucile to Mr. J. Erle Hutchison on Wednesday, October the twentieth. Nineteen hundred and twenty-six at high noon Xenia, Ohio."

EXTEND INVITATION
A cordial invitation is being extended all members of the First Methodist Episcopal Church to attend the reception, honoring the new pastor, the Rev. W. N. Shank and Mrs. Shank, at the church, Friday evening. The reception will begin at 7:30 and a large attendance is expected. Labels for the Ladies' Aid Society contest are requested to be brought to the reception.

TRINITY AID MEETS
Ladies' Aid Society, Trinity M. E. Church, will hold an all-day meeting at the church Tuesday, with the second division in charge. Final plans for the congregational dinner which will be held Friday evening, October 22, will be made at this time. A full attendance is desired.

Mrs. J. L. Mettrey and children, Dorothy Jean and Russell, 50 Center St., will spend the week-end in Tippicanoe City.

The missionary society of the First Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. A. Moore, 40 W. Second St., Tuesday, October 12 at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Edith Wyatt, of the state department of health, division of nursing, is in Xenia and paid a visit to the headquarters of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Standard Bearers of the First M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. L. Spencer Tuesday evening, October 12, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Emma Jeffers, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Kate McDill, Dayton Hill, has returned to her home in College Corner, O.

Mrs. Wilbur Mills (Gertrude Labron), of San Francisco, Calif., is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. A. Labron, E. Market St.

Mrs. Adda Oglesbee, W. Main St., underwent an operation for the removal of goiter at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Friday morning.

Miss Gladys Cummings, S. Detroit St., who has been confined to her home by illness the past three weeks, is improving.

Miss Louise Baldwin, social delegate and Miss Ruth Arment, business delegate, from Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, will attend the district convention of the sorority at Urbana, Saturday and Sunday. Several other members of the local society will attend the sessions.

Sara M. Chew Missionary Society, Trinity M. E. Church will hold its regular meeting Monday evening, October 11, at the home of Mrs. Sherwin Spahr on Hill St.

Mr. E. C. Moorman, N. King St., employed at the Greene County Hardware Co., narrowly averted having his eyesight impaired when he was struck on the forehead by a corn binder, which he was repairing, Thursday afternoon, on a farm near Xenia. His eyelid was severely lacerated but the sight was not hurt.

Read this remarkable testimonial to the power of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN over constipation:

"I prize your ALL-BRAN. I have been using it three weeks for constipation. I had had this trouble for 25 years and had tried everything, but could never get any relief—until since using your bran I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

Yours truly,
Thomas A. HENLEY, JR.

Blotchy skin, eruptions, spots before the eyes, headache, these are all tell of the ravaging inroads of constipation. Don't let this dire disease send its poisons through your body. Check it now and save your health and happiness!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation permanently if used regularly or money refunded. Eat two tablespoonsful daily—in chronic cases, every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Kellogg's is 100 percent bran. Ready to eat. Delicious with fruit or cream—also in cooking. Served in all restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

MAJOR MONTGOMERY WILL MAKE ADDRESS AT G. O. P. BANQUET

MAJOR MONTGOMERY

The 1926 campaign of the Republican party in Greene County designed to bring about victory for the G. O. P. both in the county and state elections in November, will be formally opened with a banquet at the Elks' Club dining room Thursday, October 14 to be attended by a majority of the state candidates and all local candidates.

Major Charles W. Montgomery, Newark, O., former chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, consented to be present and deliver the keynote address, it is announced.

Many Republican candidates for state offices including Justice Carington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, will also attend and make short talks. The banquet will start at 6:30 o'clock in charge of Jacob Kany.

Because of the limited seating capacity, each member of the Republican County Central and Executive Committees will be supplied with five tickets for the banquet, which will be disposed of at $1 per ticket, it is announced.

About 230 tickets will be available and in this way an even distribution over the county will be obtained, it is said. Committee members unable to dispose of their allotted number of tickets by Tuesday evening, are asked to turn the balance over to George Geyer, chairman of the campaign committee for re-distribution.

The banquet is intended as the opening gun to be fired in the 1926 campaign and speakers at the meeting are expected to define party issues.

Those present at the wedding were: Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Hawkins, Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Moore, Prof. and Mrs. A. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell, The Rev. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. George Walden, the Misses Nina Carroll, Marie Bolden, Helen Ferguson, Constance Gee, Glenna and

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. C. Hamman, who used the single ring service. There never was a bride more lovely than on this occasion. She was attired in white satin with a corsage of pink roses. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Ethel B. Jackson. The solemn vows were taken in the living room which was beautifully decorated with flowers.

In the presence of a few intimate friends, Miss Marjorie Byrd and Professor Robert A. Braxton were united in marriage at the Miles residence, E. Market St., the bride's residence, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. C. Hamman, who used the single ring service. There never was a bride more lovely than on this occasion. She was attired in white satin with a corsage of pink roses. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Mrs. Ethel B. Jackson. The solemn vows were taken in the living room which was beautifully decorated with flowers.

After the ceremony, refreshments were served. The bride and groom are prominent in Xenia. Professor Robert A. Braxton was formerly a member of the East High faculty and is a graduate of Wilberforce College. His bride is also a Wilberforce graduate.

MANKIND ADVANCES

A great many years ago, but relatively recently in the long history of mankind, the human race was engaged principally in the business of shedding human blood. Our prehistoric ancestry evidently thought no more of killing a man than modern man thinks of crushing a mouse.

We know this much of early man from history, archaeology, the Bible and our sub-conscious mind. A survival of this is the vigor and venom the modern soldier puts into his fighting and the millions of men, women and children who annually sally forth for the fun of slaughtering the harmless dwellers of the fields and forests.

Is it something more than curiosity and love of excitement that makes mankind flock to the hazardous automobile races and scenes of bloodshed? No news spreads more rapidly than that of the fatal accident.

But there is still hope for humanity. The day is coming when the word "humane" may be applied to every human. War is becoming less and less popular. Fewer and fewer persons are buying deadly weapons for the hunting of wild life. More and more men and women are finding their stomachs too civilized for the sight of human gore. Day by day are the murderous Cellinis and the gunmen disappearing. The time has come when Americans can not conceive of a man or woman killing another for the pure love of killing.

PARTY GOVERNMENT

"It is becoming more and more evident," says the London Daily News, "that representative government is in very serious danger. It has been destroyed to all intents and purposes in Italy, in Spain, in Russia and in Greece; both in France and Germany its future cannot be regarded entirely confidently; and even in this country and the United States anti-democratic forces have manifestly increased and multiplied since the war."

There is food for serious thought in this paragraph. Almost every month now a new dictator takes over the reins in some European country; first it was Italy, then Spain, and Greece, then Portugal and lastly Poland. And it is equally true that in the United States the enemies of representative government were never more active than at present.

One of the greatest dangers to representative government is the bloc system. It is in the countries infected with the bloc that popular government is in the greatest danger. In the United States and in Great Britain, too, to a lesser extent, there has been more regular party government. It is our political left of representative government, because representative government, as designed in our Constitution, can only flourish through great political parties, which gather into their membership people from all walks of life.

Where blocs of conflicting interests take the place of great political parties we are apt to get one of two things when popular government crumbles—the dictatorship of the autocrat, like Mussolini, or the dictatorship of communism as exemplified in Russia.

We want neither kind of dictatorship in the United States and the best way to prevent such a state of affairs is to preserve our representative government, by keeping our two great political parties clean and effective. Everything which tends to destroy party government in the United States and substitute the rule of the demagogue or the minority bloc, is a menace to our system of government.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

Advocates of government control of the coal industry may find food for thought in the following dispatch to The New York Times from its correspondent in the Philippines:

"Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, who in his youth was a coal miner in West Virginia and Ohio, today inspected a mine operated by the Philippine government at Malangas on Dumanquilas Bay, on the southern shore of Mindanao island. Wearing a miner's cap with an acetylene lamp, he descended the shaft, walked a mile underground and examined the coal and the records.

"He announced that the government was making a complete failure; despite the wonderful natural resources, and should get out of the coal business as soon as possible. The national coal company mines here and elsewhere cost the government $2,700,000 within a few years, including $500,000 operating loss. Colonel Thompson said, 'the government should lease the mines to companies with reputation and experience at fixed royalties.'

James Whitcomb Riley's poetry is the favorite hobby of Dr. Daniel L. Marsh, president of Boston University. The noted educator has read each of the 1,193 poems that Riley wrote, three times. He says most of this reading has been done in trolley cars while going to and from his office.

"I consider that merely my winter hobby, however," President Marsh said. "In the summer I find hobby as a gardener. I do a bit of farming and mow lawns. This sort of work is too much fun to allow others to do it for you."

DELICIOUS CHUTNEYS

Apple Chutney: Pare, core and dice 12 ripe apples. Put them through the food chopper with two pounds of large, seedless raisins, three lemons (seeds discarded), one peeled, sliced onion, and two of the small, red ("hot") Italian peppers. Turn the mixture into your preserving kettle with four cups of brown sugar, five cups of cider vinegar, and one tablespoon each of ground ginger and salt. Boil till the apple bits are transparent and the vegetables very tender, then turn into hot glass jars which have been sterilized by being boiled, empty, 15 minutes in water to cover, and drained. Put on new rubbers, glass tops, and seal airtight at once.

"Ripe Tomato Chutney: Pare and core six apples. Scald ten large, ripe tomatoes and rub off skins. Remove seeds from four hot Italian peppers and six green sweet peppers. Cut six stalks of celery in fairly small pieces. Now put all these ingredients through your food chopper. Turn the mixture into a preserving kettle, add three pints of cider vinegar, one pound of seedless raisins, one cup of brown sugar, two tablespoons of salt, one tablespoon of white mustard seed, and the following spices tied in a little bag: Two tablespoons of mixed whole spices—allspice, cloves, mace, cinnamon and peppercorns. Cook one and one-half hours, or till thick, then remove bag of spices and turn the chutney at once into hot, sterilized jars. Put on new rubbers, covers, and seal airtight at once, while still hot.

Green Tomato Chutney: Through the food chopper put 16 large, green tomatoes. Let these stand overnight in layers with salt (using about three quarters of a cup of salt in all). In the morning drain away the juice which has collected, and put the drained tomatoes into a preserving kettle with the following chopped ingredients: five small, peeled onions, two pounds of seedless raisins, and three hot Italian peppers (seeds discarded.) Add one tablespoon of ground ginger, four cups of brown sugar, and four cups of cider vinegar. Let all cook till the tomatoes are tender and the mixture thick. Then turn into hot, sterilized jars, seal airtight, and store.

Today's Talk

MASKS

Every crowd is a masked crowd. Every human being to some extent wears a mask.

So long as we are afraid of ourselves most of the time, so in turn must we be afraid that others may misunderstand or be afraid of us with our masks off.

But, nevertheless, each of us does remove this mask of ours to a certain few.

And then it is that we glorify all that there is in human character. You can keep silent and people won't know because masks cover up, but when you are your honest self and when you have decided to place all trust and confidence in the one you love and respect, then it is that the mask becomes unnecessary—and so it is thrown aside.

Masks are worn on faces, but they really cover hearts.

And none of us knows anything about a human heart in which we do not live and have being.

Both the good and bad wear masks. A mask could be no criterion of character. Any more than a special cut of clothes or a new type of hat.

There is even silent power behind the mobile mask. For the strong alone conceal their possible moves. And so the thinker builds in his active mind—behind his mask. The mask remains until the work itself needs no mask to tell its tale.

You cannot justly judge a person while the mask is on. For behind it are all the struggling forces of a human soul.

But select your friend while his mask is off!

PIONEER'S HOME

The fort of the pioneer may be described as consisting of cabins, blockhouses and stockades. A range of cabins commonly formed at least one side of the fort. Divisions, or partitions of logs, separated the cabins from each other. The walls on the outside were ten or twelve feet high, the slope of the roof being turned wholly inward. A few of these cabins had puncheon floors, but the greater part were earthen.

The blockhouses were built at the angles of the fort. They projected about two feet beyond the outer walls of the cabins and stockades. Their upper stories were about eighteen inches larger in dimension in every way than the underone, leaving an opening at the commencement of the second story to prevent the enemy from making a lodgment under the walls.

In some forts instead of blockhouses the angles of the fort were finished with bastions. A large folding gate, made of thick slabs, nearest the spring, closed the fort. The stockade, bastions, cabins and blockhouse walls were furnished with portholes at proper heights and distances. The entire outside was made completely bullet proof.

It may truly be said that necessity is the mother of invention, for the whole of this work was done without the aid of a single spike of iron, and for this reason, such things were not to be had. In some places, less exposed, a single blockhouse, with a cabin or two, constituted the whole fort.

PHILOSOPHY

Some tell us all we see is but a sham.

One says: "I think, and thus I know 'I am'!"

One vows: "The mind controls the tiniest part."

Another sage declares: "It is the heart!"

Bewildered by philosophy I cry: "I know I live, I know that I must die."

I read the scoffers and I'm torn by doubt.

The true believers put their thoughts to rout.

So deep they delve I cannot see the way.

One tells me "yes," the other whispers, "nay."

To find the truth is hard I will admit.

Doubt still exists in spite of Holy Writ.

I only know that honest men and true

to be prospered in the work they do.

Argue it o'er, to this we still return.

Life seldom gives us what we do not earn.

Philosophers may find some subtler test.

I know myself when I have done my best.

Not all the wisdom from a sage's pen

Alters this fact that life is lived with men.

That here we are, and here we all must stay

Until at last death summons us away:

Shall neither be afraid to live nor die.

OF
New York

By Jack O'Donnell

The Follies help New York cloak and suit men to sell goods.

Shrewd garment manufacturers have learned that if there's one thing an out-of-town buyer likes when he comes to New York it's plenty of entertainment. So many of them have developed vaudeville talent right in their shop, and when the buyer enters the store, he is greeted by a soft shoe dancer in a funny costume who cracks the latest "nifty" from the Vanities or the Follies, pulls a wow or two, and then proceeds to sell the customer a line of goods.

The Four Marx brothers, whose Broadway hit "Cocanuts" is so popular you have to have the equivalent of a letter to the manager to get inside the place, have a brother in the cloak and suit business. He is said to be "quite a comedian" himself, and besides—he can arrange to get much coveted tickets for his buyers.

I know one garment maker who goes to the Follies at least twenty-five times in a season—either for the purpose of escorting a buyer or for keeping up on the latest jokes and expressions.

Then there's Patsy I. Katz (yes, that's his real name). He gained quite a name for himself in the garment trade through his ability to do a turn no wand then, or in a wagon with a cat painted on it in which to tour Broadway. Buyers all liked Patsy.

Cloak-and-suiters seem to graduate into vaudeville anyway. Julius Tannen, a Broadway stage celebrity who enlivens Earl Carroll's shows evidently knows something about the garment business; for it wasn't so long ago that he carried a line of goods with him when he went on the vaudeville circuit.

The "sidewalks of New York" are never more crowded than shortly before midnight, when some sixty odd theaters disgorge their audiences into the streets. Although there's scarcely a street light visible, Broadway, from Columbus Circle south to 36th Street, is as light as day under the million dollar glare of electric signs.

One night last week I stopped on the corner of 42nd Street and 7th Avenue to chat with a friend. It was a few minutes before 12. We scarcely noticed how fiercely we were being jostled by subway seekers and indiscriminate pedestrians, until a cop stepped up and informed us that we shouldn't stand there.

Here's one town in the world where you can't stop at midnight to talk to a friend without obstructing traffic.

Society has again learned to pronounce the word "badminton." This bizarre game, one of the most popular in the British Isles has become the subject of much interest since Sir George Thomas with his international stars gave an exhibition recently in the 212th Coast Artillery Armory.

In fact the "bird"—which is a shuttlecock made of feathers stuck into a round cork—bids fair to become an important addition to Gotham's high sport circles.

The Theatre

Four well-known movie directors were asked recently to attempt to predict the development of film technique.

Erich Von Stroheim believes that films will be presented in such a way as to make the character and landscape stand out in relief-like pictures seen through the old stereoscopic lens. Frank Lloyd predicts that pictures will run the numbers of reels required to tell the story; no more, no less. The convention today is that a picture must run between six and ten reels. Lloyd feels that if a picture can be properly done in three reels there is no excuse for making it six. On the other hand, if a story requires fifteen reels to be told, why slaughter it to hold it to ten?

John Walters believes that titles and subtitles will largely be eliminated. "Radio and wireless will play a tremendous part in the future of pictures," James Cruze declared. "With the recent transmission of photographs by wireless, I believe the time is near when motion pictures will be taken on some far-off location and sent by wireless to the studio laboratories."

Pola Negri's new picture, "Hotel Imperial" is a new type of war story. Heretofore, war films have centered around spectacular battle scenes, with thousands of soldier "extras" and expensive sets—attempting to imitate actual conflict. The story of Miss Negri's picture is laid on the Russo-Hungarian frontier at the time of the Russian invasion of Galicia in 1915 and there are no battle scenes. The picture shows the reactions of individuals to the conflict, not the conflict itself.

"Bull" Montana has a rival, George Kotsanos, Greek wrestler, signed for the role of "The Monk," a halfwit brute of the London underworld in Rin-Tin-Tin's new picture, "While London Sleeps." Montana was a wrestler before he entered the films. Believing his blunt nose and cauliflower ears may also have a future in the movies, Kotsanos cancelled wrestling engagements in Columbus, O., Atlanta, Ga., and El Paso, Tex.

PROMISING COLT IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM AT TRAINING STABLE

Nat Hunter's Yearling Oliver Strong Had Showed Form

Oliver Strong, a yearling colt, by Oliver Evans and sired by Guy Axworthy, the only horse that has ever shed two-minute trotters, was lost to its owner, N. N. Hunter, Jamestown, when the animal died from pneumonia at the stables at the Xenia fairgrounds this week.

A most promising future had been held out for the colt. The horse was taken ill last week.

Oliver Strong has trotted an eighth of a mile in seventeen and one-half seconds and was considered one of the fastest colts in this section of the state.

His dam was Belle Strong, the dam of Dr. Strongworthy, 2:03 1-4 and Mary Ward, 2:09 1-4.

Mr. Hunter is understood to have had several princely offers for the horse but declined to sell him. He was entered in all of the futurities and also in the Hamiltonian stake to be run in 1928. The Hamiltonian stake is reputed to be worth almost $75,000 to the winner.

Mr. Hunter is also the owner of a half-brother of the colt that died this week. Joe Hagler, prominent Greene County horse trainer, is in charge of the Hunter horses at the fairground stables.

COMPOSITE BOX SCORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Bob O'Farrell, the Cardinal's slugging catcher, today had assumed the batting leadership of the world series regulars, with the fine average of .437. Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, was second with a mark of .412.

As a result of their hitting yesterday, the Yanks are batting .245, only fourteen points behind St. Louis.

The composite score of the first five games follows:

CHICAGO'S TITLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Chicago's major-league baseball players comprising the White Sox and the Cubs were entraining for their homes today following the wind-up battle of the city series.

The White Sox regained the city championship, winning four of the seven games played. The deciding game was played yesterday at Cubs park. Ted Blankenship shut out the Nationals, 3 to 0.

The Bruins outthit the Sox, 8 to 7, but Root and Blake were liberal with passes, several of which figured in the scoring.

CHOLERA IN COUNTY GETTING SERIOUS

Presence of cholera among hogs in Greene County has reached serious proportions, farmers declare. The disease has been prevalent for the past sixty days, it is said.

Farmers have complained that veterinarians in the county have been unable to obtain serum to inoculate hogs and it is also said that farmers have been treating their hogs, which caused the disease to break out. Constant treatment of hogs is necessary to counteract the disease, one farmer said Friday.

Hog cholera is more noticeable in the northeast part of the county, particularly around Cedarville.

BIG COTTON CROP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Based on a condition of 61.3 per cent of normal on October 1, the United States will have a cotton crop this year of 16,627,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, the crop-reporting board of the department of agriculture announced today. Production last year amounted to 16,103,679 bales.

RESERVES AND MERCHANTS SET FOR TITLE TILT HERE SUNDAY

Reserves and Merchants are, priming their guns and redressing their breastworks for what may prove the deciding game of the current city baseball series Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. The teams will take the field at 2:30 o'clock.

Both teams are announced to have procured new talent for the eighth game of the series this week and this is also indicated by the further disclosure that the general admission price has been raised to fifty cents in order that the clubs can meet expenses of "bigger and better" players. Don Clark and McCall, pitchers extraordinary, who are just about as right-handed as any twirlers can ever hope to be, will probably be again given the pitching assignments for their respective teams Sunday.

These lads worked studiously and carefully to a twelve-inning 3 to 3 tie score last week and should they labor again this week, it will be a case of pay your money and take your choice for this pair evenly matched.

BREAKS HELPED YANKS WIN ON THURSDAY

By DAVIS J. WALSH

EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—At the end of the game, the breaks stood five to one in favor of the Yanks. The latter's only bad luck came in the sixth, when the wind held Lazzeri's long fly inside the park with the bases filled. But, as far as that went, Lazzeri wouldn't have been at bat at all except for Pennock's lucky double.

Douthitt would have caught Paschal's fly that scored the tying run in the ninth. That is, Douthitt would have done so if he wasn't sitting on the bench.

The only thing you catch there is a lot of splinters.

But Douthitt's absence, caused by his collision with Haise on Wednesday, was not as detrimental as Haise's presence. The latter couldn't get up with flies hit in his direction because of his leg injury.

The boys used to hold St. Louis up for public consideration as the hotbed of feudal bias. But no more. The stands made a hero of Ruth without having to give the proposition their best effort.

Lazzeri has proved two things, i. e. and to-wit: that he can hit a baseball with much fervor and that he can run into more trouble than a blindman on a motorcycle. He tried to stretch a double out of all proportion to its worth with none out on Wednesday and yesterday he romped blithely into a tag-out double play with a run already over the plate.

All the young man had to do was to stop and make Hornsby chase him or throw to second. Either course would have allowed Gehrig to score before the completion of the final out.

Our Mr. Ruth walked twice but otherwise spent a sedate afternoon at the plate. But his one-hand catch of Haise's foul in the fourth was a gem of purest ray serene.

If the Yanks win the series, and no one is betting that they won't, they will be the first club to win a world's series title with a sieve for an infield.

When Mr. Huggins decided that he needed a substitute for Dugan, he sent Gazella to third base. That he brought down the house. Just try that infield on your mouth organ sometime: Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and Gazella. Just a mouthful of consonants.

Sherdel pitched two fine ball games and lost both. Hoyt stumbled through a terrible one and won. There ain't no justice in this life.

"Not Possible To Classify"

By Mack Sauer

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

QUESTION—What do you think of the five-day plan that Ford is using, and which is being talked about in industrial centers?

G. Mineywhiz, 13 Blue St.—"What this country needs is more men who will adopt the five-day week plan and work five days. I pay my men for six days and they work about three. If they will work five days, I will be more than satisfied."

SI Clone, 2 Essex St.—"It is a mighty fine idea. It will give a laboring man a chance to find a place to park. With five days for working and two days for finding a place to park his car a fellow should get along tolerably well."

B. A. Logna, 17 Hudson St.—"I am in favor of abolishing work forever. If we must work, let's reverse the order and have five days of rest with two days of work."

Bill Lillardbail, 23 Skidoo St.—"Fine! Fine! I operate a poolroom, and feel that such a movement would increase my Saturday business 100 per cent. I would invite the men to come and spend the extra day and some of their money with me."

Mr. Miller, Electrical Dealer—"It's a great idea. It will give a man a chance of getting shaved before Sunday. With the women in the barber shops he doesn't have much of a chance on Saturday now. With nothing to do on Saturday he should get into the shops early Saturday morning; this would give him a fine chance of getting shaved and home before Sunday."

Mack Sauer, The Columbus Dispatch—"It doesn't bother me at all. I never work anyway, so it causes me no worry. I could name a hundred or so others who are in the same boat with me, but I won't. You know them. I do know that ads on this page sure do the work. Phone one today."

POOR AIMEE SEMPLE

If ever this way
Aimee's steps are bent,

If you've a cottage for rent.

I don't care much about the McPherson case, but I'm thankful that I can prove my whereabouts during the time she was away. They say the fellow who is supposed to have been seen with her seemed to be broke and that answers my description exactly.

DEAN INGE WARNS ENGLAND U. S. PLANS TO SNATCH AWAY CANADA

By BURTON RASCOE
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Very Rev. W. R. Inge, the "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's, London, has again lived up to his lugubrious nickname. In a volume of essays

DEAN INGE

just published here by Scribner's under the title, "England," he lifts up his direful voice in mingled prophecy and castigation. He is bitter toward the United States and he does not hesitate to hope that his country will get its "come-uppence."

"Here are some of the prophecies he ventures and some of the possibilities he contemplates, not without a certain satisfaction, for in his new volume he is a Jeremiah attacking the greed, luxury, looseness and laxity of the times:

America in her greediness for power and dominion will annex Canada.

England, already reduced to secondary position in world power, will sink deeper and deeper into vassalage to the United States.

The European nations will combine to wage war on the United States, the "Shylock of Nations" and Great Britain will stand idly by and will not aid the United States, because "after losing Canada" she would "no longer have any motive" and because the United States has "forfeited friendship."

Industrial war, brought on by over-population of the British Isles and the starvation of the populace, together with the destructive activities of Bolshevism will bring about the down fall of the country.

Swarms of blacks from Africa or swarms of yellow men from Asia will overrun Europe and wipe out white supremacy.

There is, however, a rider to the Gloomy Dean's prophecies and that is that these catastrophes may be averted if his warnings are heeded in time.

While accusing Americans of unfriendliness and arrogance toward

England, Dean Inge walks on American toes very inconsiderately. He does not forgive the thirteen original colonies for declaring independence and winning the revolutionary war for freedom from England. In a chapter devoted to the revolution he argues that England was in the right, and the colonists in the wrong. He hints also that they were not quite gentlemen. He deals harshly with us in the other war we waged against England, the war of 1812, "when the Americans seized the opportunity to stab England in the back." Perhaps the most astounding thing to Americans in the book is the chapter in which Inge tells how he and other Englishmen long before the world war attempted to bring about an alliance between Germany and Great Britain against the United States. On his own admission, he himself went to Berlin and preached to the Germans the danger that lay in American supremacy. He talked to an "eminent German publicist."

"I found him strangely oblivious of the danger to Europe from the United States. I tried to represent to him that Europe had perhaps fifty years more of ascendancy before he and other Englishmen finally moved across the Atlantic. But, I added, if there is a great European war, we shall sacrifice those fifty years."

The efforts of the dean and others to bring about an alliance of Germany and Great Britain against the United States failed because Germany "was unwilling to abstain from naval competition with us."

"The cordial friendship which many Englishmen enjoy with individual Americans," he writes, "and numerous ties by marriage with American families must not blind us either to the intense concentration of the American people at large on what they consider their own interests or to the prevailing unfriendliness of America. For more than a hundred years England has submitted, for the sake of Canada, to a series of affronts and injuries which would not have been tolerated from any other nation. If the British flag were hauled down on the North American continent, it is more than possible that the nations of Europe enraged by the bloated prosperity and the airs of superiority of the man who won the war would combine to draw Shylock's teeth and Great Britain after losing Canada would no longer have any motive to help a nation which, in the circumstances supposed, would have finally forfeited its friendship."

Sayre's Drug Store

Police and Fountain News

An unhappy Tummy once said to its Owner
"It seems to ME you are pulling a boner
In leaving me suffer from hunger and drought
When a soda or two would make me quite stout."

So the Owner took heed and came in our place
And for twenty long minutes kept feeding his face
And when he arose with an eye full of twinkles
His Tummy felt fine for it had no more wrinkles!

WITHOUT Rubber!

Wotta you say if I throw out all the tubing, rubber gloves, aprons, H. W. Bottles, ice packs, sponges, nipples and shower jets I got here in the store! Let's have a VOTE on the subject! None of you folks ever USE such things do you? Let's get along without them for a spell!

What Kina JOLT Can YOU Stand?

Does a run after a street car or a stray pup leave you winded? Gasping? Shook up? If it DOES you need THREE bottles of Maltolium Tonic which will come nearer making you a Tunny or a Channel Swimmer than any thing ELSE we wot of!

Sore Footsies!

The pounding you give your puppies every day is BOUND to tire them out. In many cases where you're getting heavier, the instep gives way and all sorts of miseries result. A non-skid Arch Support coupled with a dash of Rexall Foot Balm makes you happier, healthier and a heap more judicial.

Christmas and New Years! Pardon Us!

The idea of MOST merchants of waiting until December to get you all het up on Christmas shopping is a wet idea with ME!

Right in our store TODAY are PLENTY items which will make simply marvelous Christmas presents! SOME of them can NOW be obtained at a price that will make NONE of you mad! MOST merchants would lay these particular items aside until pre-holiday sale time and get FULL price for them! WE are just dumb enuf to TELL you the facts and ask you fair and square to trip in here and pick these things up NOW!

Isn't it a fact that you're going to give away a lotta presents? Isn't it a fact that you'll go nutty like every one else and BLOW YOUR ROLL a couple of days BEFORE CHRISTMAS? Am I right?

So why not come to, get hep, use your noodle and get OVER NOW at least a PART of the mess you're going to be in around the middle of December? and SAVE MONEY DOING IT!

I tried this same idea two years ago—got a little results too. Tried it LAST year and got a somewhat better one so THIS year I HOPE to get a whole regiment of you shoppers thinking straight but bleeve ME its no EASY job!

As William Penn said so abruptly: "Use thy nut folks! Use thy nut!"

Shorty Says:

Doc is trying to string out a pain over 90 days which generally uses up about a fifth of that time! What if it IS sensible! What if it DOES save money, time, energy and wrinkles! Ain't it REAL SPORT to slug with a gang of wild eyed Christmas shoppers? Go nuts for a couple days and wake up January 2 with a couple quarts of bills, headaches and soiled collars! Nussir I'm AGIN Doc and his SHOP NOW idea!

The most EXPENSIVE Perfumes and Toiletries in Xenia

The AVERAGE buyer for a department of this kind FEARS to lay in a COMPLETE stock of HIGH priced items of this sort but when WE buy we figger that you Xenia folks want the BEST there is — REGARDLESS of price. Are we RIGHT?

Hold EVERYTHING!!

The "Moonlight on the Ganges," a 75c Victrola record is the most instep rousing, muscle twitching slice of pure musical connotation we EVER heard! We have others NEARLY as wild, but THIS one heads the Parade! Stop up lively before they're gone!

Have You a "Little Cough" in Your Home?

If so and it is your wish to put the dern thing OUT—like a lamp—dash right in here with 50c and get measured for Riker's Mentholated Cough Syrup! It sure do know its stuff and has a keen record.

Or Mebbe Its a "COLD!"

KEEP your cold if you feel that way about it but we notice that those of our customers who don't CARE for 'em use Rexall Cold Special 25c, and the cold is outta luck! Do as you think BEST however. We have NO desire to cramp your style.

(Weather Report)

Rain is all over so here you are 5 lbs. Corona Coppercarb for $1.00 for treating wheat.

Comes Now The Beautiful New Jewett

The Second Most Beautiful Car in America

An entirely new Jewett—a Jewett of exquisite beauty and charm—a Jewett of smart style and matchless vogue—awaits your inspection and admiration at our showroom today.

Let your anticipations run high when you come to see this newest and smartest Jewett. For its builders have gone far to embellish this car of moderate size and moderate cost with things that in the past have been reserved for those of great wealth.

The very lines of this Jewett instantly bespeak style. Its cushioned seats resemble those of the drawing room. Its walnut-finish panels, skillfully inlaid, give an air of custom-exclusiveness quite uncommon. Its instrument panel is as charming as a beautiful watch, and the instruments as accurate. And back of its beauty and charm and grace—an ultra-modern motor (considerably larger than the former Jewett motor) and equipped with an air cleaner, bronze-backed bearings and high pressure lubrication; an even more dependable Jewett chassis; and Paige-Hydraulic 4-Wheel brakes.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Franklin Parker.
THE REPORT OF THE SPIES.
GOLDEN TEXT: We are well able to overcome it. Numbers 13: 30.
LESSON TEXT: Numbers 13: 23-33.

THE MAN AND THE LAND:
After study and thought we are coming to know two pictures better and better. One is the man Moses who led the people out of the land of Egypt, the other is the land of Canaan, towards which the Israelites were led. Moses was a wonderful man. Next to Paul, he was the greatest man in the Bible. He was a man of the law, and he was wonderful because God was with him. And here is the land we have heard so much about and where later Christ was born. This land promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and they had so many blessings connected with it. It was the land of promise, and now Moses is here to enter it and live in it. He gave himself up to this one great thing, leading the children of Israel into this land. Though Moses was never to enter it himself yet he constantly prayed that his people might come into full possession of it.

A PEOPLE, FAITHLESS: Here was the land and God said, "Go up and possess it." If they had obeyed God would have given it to them at once, but they were afraid and asked that spies be sent in order to investigate everything about it. Since God saw that the people were not ready to trust him fully he decided that it was best to teach them during the next forty years as he taught Moses during the forty years as a shepherd. So they must remain outside the promised land for the next forty years. Moses was submissive to God in this matter. They would have fared far better if they had had faith and gone on in to possess the land.

THE SPIES GO FORTH: Moses picked out one man out of each tribe, to act as spies with the exception of the tribe of Levi. They no doubt dressed as travelers and two and two so as not to be suspected. They were busy for forty days. They found that the natives did not live in tents but in strong dwellings and the fruit was abundant and large. It took two men to carry one bunch of grapes back to the Israelites.

THE SPIES REPORT: At last the twelve spies returned to appease the curiosity of the people and showed them the fruit. The twelve agreed as to the fruitfulness of the land but ten were afraid of the giant people who inhabited it. Then Caleb said: "Yes that is true, but we have God on our side, and He has promised to give us the land." Joshua agreed with Caleb but the two could not overcome the faithlessness of the people as well as the ten. They forgot God's power in the past and thought that they could not win the battle with the giants, forgetting that God would be the one that would give them the victory. God struck the ten cowardly spies with a plague until they died, but their faithlessness served as poison to the faith of the people. God commanded Caleb and Joshua because of their faith. He assured them that they should enter the promised land but all the people over twenty years of age must wander around in the wilderness until they died. We will all get what our faith prescription calls for, as the Bible says, "According to your faith be it unto you."

Then came the time when the old man knew that his days were numbered. An hundred and forty seven years he had lived, and now he must face a longer journey than any that he had made. He called the son of his pride to him and Joseph came. "Swear to me," the old man said, "that thou wilt bury me here in this strange land, carry me up out of Egypt, and lay me beside my own at Hebron." And Joseph promised to fulfill his father's wish. And by and by he brought his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, that they might get a blessing from the aged saint. When the boys were led in, the old man gathered his last strength and raised his weary frame in the bed. Quietly he talked of the days and the loves of the past. Then he looked at his grandson with his dim old eyes. Did he remember another day when two sons craved a blessing from their blind father? And said, "Praise to God, my son; I never thought to see thy face again; but the Lord hath shown me also thy children." So he blessed them, and the wondering boys were led out again.

After them came all his sons, and then, too, he blessed, for telling to each, with wondrous insight, the lot that should lie before him. One more charge he laid upon them all—to bury him, as Joseph had sworn already, in the cave at Machpelah, where his kindred lay. And so he died.

A mighty mourning was made in Egypt for the old chief. Then as though he had been a prince of the land. For seventy days they mourned him as he lay in his painted coffin. Then Joseph and his brethren craved leave of Pharaoh and together they took their way with the funeral train across the desert and through the southland, until they came to Mamre. There in the cave of Machpelah they laid him with his own, and they themselves came back to Egypt.

Now when their father was gone, fear fell on the brethren once more. Joseph should even yet take vengeance upon them for the past. Together they came and bowed before him, pleading for forgiveness in the name of their dead father. It was a new word to Joseph, but he had a little understanding of his heart, and so little trust in his love; but he comforted them and reassured them, and bade them fear no evil. "To be continued."

I read a book which told of the deeds of the sons of men. It was a story of war, conquest, and pillage. I read of jealousy and deceit. I read of seduced innocence and betrayed friendship. One was an acclaimed great whose hands were red with blood; and another, generous, who had devoured widows' houses. Sick at heart, I closed the book, and walked in thoughtful mood, down a quiet street. And as I walked, this is what I saw: A woman with a babe at her breast, and she was not that her face was shining. A white robed child knelt in prayer. A man and a maid keeping love's tryst. A young girl reading to one whose eyes were weak. A poor widow dividing her loaf with one who was still poorer. A housewife carrying dainty food to a sick neighbor. All this and more, I saw in my little walk. And I thought of all the little quiet streets in God's world where people were doing these same fine deeds. And as I thought I thanked God and took courage. But why, O Pen of History, should these go unrecorded, while so much that is sad and unlovely burdens the pages of literature? It would be different when God's "Who's Who" is written.—E. C. Baird.

My business is not to rebuke myself, but to make the absolute best of what God made.—Robert Browning.

The greatest trade development of the twentieth century will be on the Pacific, and will be directed toward China. The purchasing power of the Chinese is steadily growing and this together with the increasing power of the Chinese working classes which constitutes four fifths of the entire population, point to a great commercial future. Only the very edge of China has been penetrated by Americans and Europeans. This great commercial development will be made in the next fifty years, in the Chinese interior. The Chinese are increasing their demands for wheat and grains that grain elevators are being erected in the Ports.

EX-SENATOR IN STAGE ROLE

● Gilbert M. Hitchcock, chairman of senate foreign relations committee when Wilson was president, now Omaha publisher, is now "on the stage." He played part of king in Omaha's annual Ak-Sar-Ben pageant, with Miss Ellanore Baxter as queen. They are pictured in royal robes.

Dempsey as He Looks Today

This is the latest, and the first permitted closeup of Jack Dempsey since Gene Tunney behaved like a baggageman. His left eye isn't all that it used to be.

Latest Picture of Mrs. McPherson

Married Twice Same Day

Dorothy Fitch and Randolph Franklin Hall, high in New York society, were married by a city clerk while hundreds of guests waited in church. Then they hastened to the church and were married again. They made no explanation. They are shown after the second ceremony.

Three in One Family to Marry

Doris Podoll, upper left, was to marry Leo Rosenblatt, son of the noted cantor; Clara Wollock, upper right, was to marry Samuel, Leo's brother; and Nettie Rosenblatt, below, sister of the grooms, was to marry Harry Weiss. All weddings were to take place in New York the same week.

New Picture of Mrs. Mills

Here is a new picture of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, choir singer, who, with Rev. Edward Hall, was murdered near Somerville, N. J. This photo, taken a week before the murders, has just come to light.

SCHUMANN-HEINK'S 'GOLDEN YEAR'

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

Chapter XXI

IN SUNNY CAROLINA Mary woke to the feel of someone shaking her. Where on earth was she? What had happened? What and where was this shelf on which she lay?

Then she remembered she was on a trail.

"Time for breakfast," said a soft and husky voice, apologetic.

Through a crack in her curtains she could glimpse the tall young negro porter on his way down the aisle, rousing slumberous passengers by means of gentle pushes as he walked.

She sat up with a start. Happiness and a glad anticipation swept over her in waves.

Through the crack in the curtains she could see across the aisle to Philip's vacant bed. So he was already up and dressed?

From immediately underneath her came the querulous tones of Mrs. Wade.

"Do get up, Cy. We can't both dress in here. There isn't space to swing a cat in. Here, take your kinnasa, and get along to the wash-room, quick!"

Suppressing a tiny laugh, Mary saw her employer trotting meekly down the aisle, in purple dressing gown and bedroom slippers.

Oh, how quaint!

Philip joined her party at the breakfast table.

"Look! Winter is left behind," he pointed out to the flying landscape. "We're in the south now."

Mary thrilled at the return to her own homeland.

Mary's eyes were sparkling. Fresh she looked this morning in a simple starched "shirt waist," with a little turn-over collar that made her look no older than a school girl.

She was wondering if Philip Andover was thinking of their talk last night. He had contrived under some pretext of showing her the observation car, to get her away from her two chaperons. They had had quite a tete-a-tete.

Oh, happy they had been!

Her mind danced into the future. That future shone like sunbeams glinting on mountain tops. Pinnares of happiness to come.

They all had breakfast. Such a merry meal! Even Cyrus Wade was like a schoolboy on a holiday. His laugh rang out. He wouldn't let Mary have ordinary eggs and bacon. He ordered broiled weakfish for her, and potatoes mashed in cream.

The coffee was delightful. Cyrus in high fettle, complimented the white-coated and white-capped negro cook, who leant out of his tiny kitchenette to watch the happy party.

Mrs. Wade nodded, smiling at the kindly little fellow.

"We're old stagers."

"So it's the young one's turn," forgetting tact, he nodded to his secretary and Philip, then cried: "Ouch!" as his wife kicked him sharply underneath the table. "Now what did you want to do that for, Helen? You've no mercy on my corns."

She turned it off with a laugh, noticing Mary Forrest's flaming cheeks. It was nice—after close acquaintance with Luella—to see a girl, who could blush again.

But Cyrus went too far at times. Obtrusive he was.

The landscape was intriguing. Morning sunshine glinted on the lonely little creeks and wooded marsh lands.

"Ah! here we are!" Wooden steps were set against the train when it drew up jerkily in a little country station. "This is Pinehurst. Out we get."

Soon the quartette were in the hotel bus, and driving through tall pinewoods to an immense, rambling structure that stood upon a hillside overlooking a wide valley.

"Ever see such tall trees?" Cyrus peered through his goggles.

They swept up an avenue to the front door, where groups of men with golf-bags stood about. The chauffeur told them that a convention of some sort was being held, but the main attraction was a golfing tournament.

Over two hundred gentlemen in the hotel.

Mary's room was on the third floor, and the pine-trees were swaying dreamily close to her open window. She leant out, drawing deep breaths of perfumed air. Stirrings of spring were all about her. Something trembled like a living thing in her young heart.

Philip Andover—ah! would he? But he must. She loved him so.

"I'm glad that Cyrus is giving you a holiday, my dear," remarked Mrs. Wade, in great good humor, as she and her husband's secretary stepped into a bus that was to take them to the golf course where they were to join the two men of the party. "You look better already. You have a wonderful color."

The vehicle sped off among the pines. They had only been down three hours, but happiness over welled back in her own dear Southland had already worked miracles with Mary Forrest. Clad in her new pink sweater and chic little hat to correspond, with a wild rose flush upon her cheeks, she presented as pretty a picture as mere man, at least, would wish to see.

They rattled through the tiny village and over the sandy roads towards the country club where Philip and Cyrus Wade awaited them after a morning's round of golf.

"Haven't lost any time in starting, have they?" remarked Mrs. Wade. "My! Aren't there crowds of men down here! I often think these Conventions are purposely arranged—by the men—not for any doing of any real business; else why would they choose to hold them at a place like this?—but just so as to get away from their wives a bit, and have a lot of fun together. Well, I don't entirely blame them. We women are trying, taking us by and large and all the year around!"

They drew up before the clubhouse. It had a red shingled roof, and bright green-and-white striped awnings. A verandah full of rocking chairs overlooked a putting green composed of sand, and large green umbrellas were driven into the grass to shade the heads of players who were seated at tiny tables, smoking or taking refreshment of some sort.

Philip Andover and Cyrus Wade appeared over a knoll, their round completed.

"Rode down, did you?" rebuked Cyrus in high fettle, and delighted with his unwonted exercise. "You want to walk more, Helen, and keep your weight down."

This was a sore point. Mrs. Wade had all the average middle-aged woman's dislike of walking, and never stirred a foot if a car was handy. But she spent a small fortune in electric baths and vibrators and massage.

"The air of the man! Just listen to him! And I'll bet"—turning to Philip Andover—"you trod all over him!"

"He did, too. Never mind. Tomorrow morning we do it all over again." Cyrus led the way into the club-house, where an excellent lunch was served.

The Wade couple slumbered all afternoon. At three the telephone beside Mary's bed jangled. It was Philip calling her. Would she meet him at the hotel?

Ah! would she? She tried to keep the excitement out of her voice as she assured him she would be downstairs in five minutes.

They sauntered upwards through the pines. Rain had fallen on the previous night, and the air had a marvelous "tang" about it, fragrant and exquisite.

Mary Forrest walked on clouds. Once, when she stumbled a little over a tree-root set in the soft mould, Philip caught her by the elbow.

"I have to take special care of you, you know." So sweet the words were, like a gentle breeze of spring among the branches overhead. She lifted her face to meet the warm look in his eyes.

How handsome he was, with the sun making a dancing filigree on his uncovered head! Such clean-cut features! And that sensitive mouth of his that was so tender now.

"Simply marvelous to get away from town!" His voice had a beguiling cadence that was like music to her heart. "One can be real out here. One breathes—at last."

They stopped, as though of one accord.

Showers of golden light were on them like a benediction.

"Happy!" Philip's touch was on her arm again. He had turned his head momentarily away from her, listening to birds' courtship notes—the fevered quests of spring amid the greenery.

"It's beautiful," said Mary Forrest, very low. Tears ached at her throat.

"Ah, listen! Was any love song lovelier than that?" The pure notes of a thrush rang out.

She moved away from him a little, because his nearness filled her with a poignant ache. She went a few yards up the trail, and leant against a sapling tree. In the hot sunshine she could almost feel the sap that was arising in it, young and strong and sweet.

New Face Powder All the Rage

You will not have a shiny nose now. A very fine, pure, new French Process Powder is all the rage. Keeps shine away—perspiration hardly affects it. Lines or pores won't show. Look like natural skin and gives a beautiful complexion. Get a box today. It is called MELLO-GLO.

Hutchison & Gibney

EVERYBODY admires an unblemished skin—a skin of natural clearness, tinted with the pink glow of health!

A woman's skin will add to or mar her beauty. It is her greatest charm. And a man's skin is his certificate of merit.

How is your skin? Will it bear close inspection? Or, are you embarrassed when anyone is near you, because of your muddy, sallow complexion, pimples, black heads, blotches, rashes, boils or eczema?

S. S. S. will give you the clear, healthy skin that everybody admires. You know that rich, red blood is absolutely necessary to a beautiful, unblemished skin.

It's a fact! There never was anything more certain. And S. S. S. helps Nature build this rich, red blood—it builds red-blood-cells by the millions! S. S. S. will give you a skin that you'll be proud for people to see.

Build rich, red blood with S. S. S. That's the thing to do. And just watch blemishes disappear and the sleeping beauty of your skin come out for the world to admire. Beautify your skin by feeding it with the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

S. S. S. will give you strength and energy, too. That comes from red blood. It will drive out rheumatism, increase your appetite, put firm, plump flesh on your body.

Get S. S. S. at your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Twigs snapped behind her. He was coming.

"Don't move. Such a beautiful picture—as you are—"

She wheeled round, smiling. Dappled light was on her upturned face.

"A lovely wood-nymph!" Philip murmured.

"You—the faun?" she countered, thrusting, praying that he would not guess her feeling for him. With a gay movement she jerked off the little rose-pink hat, and loosed strands of her hair curled all about her face, alluring.

"Ah!" She could hear his breath catch in his throat. "Why did you run away from me?"

"I didn't."

"Yes, you did. You were afraid—" of that. It caught you, held you—and you ran from it."

"Such mystery! I do not understand."

He flung his head back, listening. She could see the strong curve of his neck, and the shapely turn of the dark handsome head of his. Oh! he was good to look upon....

"Listen again. The birds' mating song. Doesn't it give a message to you?"

Tears dragged at her throat almost. A warm sweetness that was almost, anguish flowed through her veins.

"Spring magic!" Her soft lips framed the words. "It's only that."

"Only? It—it's life, Mary, life—and love. Don't you—can't you—understand?"

"Mary?"

"Yes?"

There in the warm sunshine with the pine trees' fragrance an intoxicant, he held out both his arms to her.

"I want you—Mary. I—I follow—" ed you—down here. Listen—the birds' song—beauty—"

Mad messages of love among the trees. The fevered quests of spring unsatisfied—and longing.

"Mary, you are trembling. I—I love you, Mary."

She was in his arms. His young mouth pressed down on hers so hard the pain of it was sheerest ecstasy.

MESQUAKIE INDIANS ABANDON POWWOW; IT HINDERS FARMING

TAMA, Iowa, Oct. 8.—"What price civilization?" is a question Indians on the government reservation here might ask themselves, for members of the Mesquakie tribe here are debating the question of suspending their annual fall

The fall powwow, an institution with the Indian since long before the time of America's discovery—days when the Indian rode through the forests and over the plains only hunting for work and fighting for pasture—is considered by local Indians as the last remaining link between the old order and the new.

The reservation is split on the proposition, part holding for a continuance of the colorful custom. The line of demarcation in the debate is clearly drawn between the Indians who farm and those who do not. There are some 3,400 acres included in the reservation here, and of these more than half are farmed. The Sac and Fox Indians who make up the Mes-

quakie tribe, went in for farming several years ago. At first it was in a half hearted manner, with the squas cultivating a few rows of corn and coaxing thinly planted beans to grow. But recently this has been changed. The Indian bucks now take the lead in the farming. Modern farming implements are used, and wide rolling fields of Iowa corn is the result.

But whether the spirit of the Indian of old has sufficiently died out to permit a cessation of the powwow remains to be determined. The powwow, interesting to others than the Indians because of the native garb, ritualistic dances and ceremonies, has in the past attracted people from all sections of the state.
